27,000 More Nazis Killed or Captured

DEATH SENTENCE—Hans Haupt (right), father of Herbert Haupt, executed Nazi spy, leaves the federal court in Chicago after having been sentenced to death. He was one of six convicted of treason. Two others were given death. A deputy marshal is at left.

Treason-Guilty African Front Husbands Get Fighting Flares Death Penalty On New Sector

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Three men, were condemned to death and their wives were sentenced to prison terms for the high crime of treason today by a young jurist who regarded their punishment as a stern warning against aiding the nation's enemies.

The three middle-aged couples, natives of Germany who became naturalized Americans, were pale, tight-lipped and tense while Federal Judge William J. Campbell declared they had committed "the most iniquitous offense on the unholy list of crimes," and pronounced their penalties.

He directed that the men be executed January 22 in the electric chair, and ordered that the women be imprisoned for 25 years and pay fines of $10,000 each.

Assisted Saboteur.
The prisoners were convicted of treason by a jury November 14 for sheltering and assisting Herbert Haupt, one of the eight Nazi saboteurs who were smuggled into this country by U-boats last June. They are Haupt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Max Haupt; his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Froehling, and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Richard Weig.

Tears of women spectators heightened the drama of the proceedings—second instance of the imposition of the death sentence for treason in the United States in 148 years—but the rapid audience seemed stirred more deeply.

Panicky Nazis Cut Down by Soviet Onrush

By EDDY GILMORE.

MOSCOW, Wednesday, Nov. 25. (AP)—The three-month-old Nazi grip on Stalingrad was weakening today as a swiftly advancing Red army killed 15,000 more Germans and captured 12,000, including three divisional generals, in a great winter offensive rolling so fast that some Nazi units were cut down from behind in panicky retreat.

Russian official announcements raised the toll of Nazis to 77,000 dead and captured, not counting huge numbers of wounded who apparently are freezing to death on the frozen steppes as did other German units last winter in the rout from Moscow.

(Reuters' Moscow correspondent estimated that 120,000 Germans had been wounded in the last few days. This apparently was based on the usual formula of three wounded for each of the 41,000 Germans reported killed.)

War Equipment Seized.
The Red army's effort to encircle the entire Nazi army stalled before Stalingrad, estimated at 300,000, clearly was gaining in power. Two communiques told of vast stocks of war equipment falling to the Red army tide, of at least one enemy airdrome being seized so swiftly that scores of German planes were unable to take to the air.

Inside Stalingrad itself the Russians in front assaults also were gaining against Nazi detachments whose rear communications have been slashed by Russian flanking armies sweeping across the Don river far to the west.

The regular midnight communiques said 900 Germans were killed and dozens of enemy blockhouses occupied in a slow but steady advance inside Stalingrad, while in the Caucasus Red army units cut down additional hundreds of Nazis in successful stands in the Nalchik and Tuapse sectors.

Airdrome Captured.
This bulletin added some details to the striking Russian successes above and below Stalingrad and inside the Don river bend, as announced in a special communique. One Red unit captured a Nazi airdrome so swiftly, it said, that 42 enemy airplanes did not have time to take to the air. Twenty-five of these planes were destroyed, the other 17 were captured intact.

In some sectors there was evidence of Axis demoralization because hundreds of fleeing Germans were being struck down from behind as the Red army rolled onward.

This was the third special communique in three days and it told this story of the increasing Red Army successes:
One Red Army gained 25 miles northwest of Stalingrad; another drove an additional 12 miles ahead to the southwest on a line paralleling the Stalingrad-Novorossiisk railroad in an apparent attempt to drive straight across the northern Caucasus to the Black sea and shatter communication lines of the German Mid-Caucasian Army.

12 Villages Taken.
In the Don river elbow directly west of Stalingrad the Red Army already had cut direct Nazi Army communications with their faltering forces inside Stalingrad. It was inside the strategic Don river loop that the three Nazi generals were seized.

Twelve more Russian villages were taken in this huge pincer movement. (The German high command in a unique communique finally has admitted the gravity of the situation by acknowledging Soviet penetrations of German defenses.)

(The German radio said the Caucasian railroad was a "clear objective" of the Russian drive southwest of Stalingrad, and acknowledged that the Red Army had "made some progress" although assuring its listeners that German reserves from the west "have brought the whole situation under control with the exception of one railway.")

1,164 Guns Captured.
The Russians announced that during yesterday they had captured 1,164 guns of various caliber, 431 tanks, many in full working order, 88 planes—many of them intact, 3,940 trucks, more than 5,000 horses, 3,000,000 shells, 18,000,000 cartridges and large numbers of infantry arms and other equipment and provisions which "still are being counted."

In the 25-mile advance north-

TRAILING THE MURDERERS—Fingerprints discovered on a wine bottle at the Black Rock Country Club are expected to prove valuable in solving the murder of George H. A. Heartwarming Story Of Boys in Khaki

By PRIVATE JEROME SHERROW.

If you've never realized just what that khaki Army uniform means, you might be interested in this story.
It's not about just one soldier, but about a lot of them. They're not from any particular place, but from nearly everywhere in the United States. They're stationed at the Atlanta Ordnance Base learning to be Army mechanics, learning to repair their Uncle Sam's mighty fleet of land battlewagons.

They won't be able to go home for their Thanksgiving dinner this year, these lads who deal with cold, hard implements. They've got to stay on the job and finish their training program in order to be fully capable for service in the field. For a lot of people, that'd be pretty disheartening news, but not for these soldiers.

Their Appreciation.
As Thanksgiving approached they began thinking, thinking of the people who had done more than a lot to make them feel perfectly at home in a strange city for the past months. They wanted to do something to let the people of Atlanta know they appreciated it.

Along the highway leading from Atlanta to the huge military reservation, there is an orphanage. Hundreds of these soldiers have seen it many times while riding the bus to and from camp. And thus was born an idea.

On this Thanksgiving Day they would give a party for the kids. They would invite 50 children, boys, out to the Army post for a turkey dinner with all the trimmings, followed by a complete day of entertainment furnished by the soldiers.

"Buddy" for a Day.
They'll get a list of 50 names of boys in the orphanage and 50 soldiers would write personal letters of invitation to a boy selected from the list. They'll ask some boy, some little kid between the ages of 7 and 14 to be their "buddy" for the day. They'll send an Army cargo truck right out to the front door of the orphanage on Thanksgiving morning to pick them up and stage a regular convoy in return to the Base.

They'll be big brothers to their charges and make them soldiers for a day. Dinner in the general.

Police, Planes Join In Search for Two Suspects and Auto

By FRANK DRAKE.

George H. A. Thomas, 56, widely known Atlanta sportsman and manager of the Black Rock Country Club, was found brutally murdered yesterday afternoon in the thick woods near the 16th tee of the rolling, lake-studded golf course he supervised.

His skull was badly crushed and he had been shot through the lower left jaw. He had been dead approximately 12 to 15 hours, doctors said, when the body was discovered.

Police immediately began searching for two suspects, but no arrests had been made last night.

Cash Is Taken.
Apparently, Thomas was killed Monday night between 9 and 12 o'clock by robbers who took cash, golf balls, a picked set of clubs, a pair of golf shoes, a bottle of whiskey, several cartons of cigarettes and matches and escaped in Thomas' car.

John Carter and Carl Thompson, Fulton county detectives, asserted they believed two persons whom Thomas knew and admitted to the clubhouse after closing hours had attacked him, forced him to open his safe, and then made him walk three-fourths of a mile across the golf course to the spot where they beat his head until the skull was shattered and then shot him with his own .41 caliber revolver to make sure of the kill.

Police Hunt Car.
A south-wide search for Mr. Thomas' light green 1940 Plymouth sedan (license No. E-4945) was started by police, and during the afternoon three Civil Air Patrol planes searched the surrounding country hoping to locate the machine. Some of the planes were soaring over the scene when the body was discovered deep in the woods by a group led by R. H. Harris, grounds superintendent, who had traced the tracks of the killers through the wet soil.

Harris set out to make a survey of the grounds shortly after noon and found fresh tracks leading up a hill over the golf course. He painstakingly followed them over the course, and suddenly glancing up while in the thick woods, he saw a patch of blue some 25 yards away. There was no doubt in his mind. He raced back to the clubhouse where newspapermen, County Officer Smith Keeler and Dr. W. Frank Wells and Roscoe Mullins, friends of Mr. Thomas, were waiting.

"There's a human body over there back of the 16th tee," Harris declared. The group rushed back with him and found the body. Blood was splashed over the underbrush.

Carter and Thompson reconstructed the crime this way:
Answers Knock.
Mr. Thomas' apparently had taken off his clothing and gone to bed, turning on an electric heating pad. It was still running yesterday when the investigation began. Somebody called or knocked and he got up and let them in, because apparently no effort had been made to break the doors or windows of the rambling two-story clubhouse.

Mr. Thomas' pet dog, "Skipper," and his 12-year-old yellow cat, "Tom," were in the counter room for the night, sleeping near the pot-bellied stove. Apparently they knew the visitors, too, because the dog was not harmed and was calm as usual yesterday morning when Collins arrived.

The detectives said they believed the murderers went over to the cash register and took the money there, probably only a few bills and small change. There was a splash of blood near the register, and the officers surmised Mr. Thomas attempted to attack them there. Apparently, he was struck with great force but not knocked unconscious.

Safe Found Open.
Then the robbers made him go into an adjoining room and open the safe. A towel with blood on it was found atop the open safe by the police yesterday morning.

What happened exactly, the officers, of course, do not know, but they think the robbers then became afraid because the club manager knew them, and decided to kill him. They let him put on his blue bathrobe over his long underwear, and put on shoes. When found, he had on neatly tied slippers, not mismatched socks. They apparently made him walk with their through a little-used roadway across the golf course, because beggar lice were thick on the dead man's legs and the bottom of the bathrobe.

Killers Know Course.
Assistant Chief John Oliver, of the county police, declared there was no doubt in his mind the killers knew the golf course well. The spot where the body was found was near a barbed wire fence. All the searches and police had to

Georgia Mills To Get New Soy Bean Trade

The $20,000,000-a-year cottonseed crushing industry in Georgia probably will be doubled under a government-sponsored plan to bring surplus soybeans from the middle west to local mills for processing, it was revealed yesterday.

Members of the Georgia Cotton, Seed and Peanut Crushers' Association voted heartily in favor of the arrangement at a meeting yesterday at the Ansley hotel, W. M. Hutchinson, secretary, announced.

The Commodity Credit Corporation, a federal agency, would deliver soybeans from Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, Kentucky, Iowa and other bean-producing states in the midwest, Hutchinson explained. Georgia crushing mills, which are now in use four to six months a year on cottonseed and peanuts, could handle the beans without additional machinery.

There are 47 crushing mills over the state, four of them in Atlanta, Hutchinson stated. The mills start operation after the peanut harvest during the summer and wind up their season on cottonseed by the turn of the year. "Some of the soybeans are al-

Warmer Weather Seen For Atlanta Today

Atlanta's weather will begin warming up today after the cold wave early this week, Forecaster Glen Jefferson said yesterday. Yesterday's high temperature was 44 degrees and the low 38.

State, Federal Chiefs Discuss Civilian Aid in Case of Attack

Plans for developing a program for financial and other assistance for civilians affected by enemy action were laid here yesterday in a conference of state welfare commissioners, their assistants and members of the Social Security Board, in the first of a two-day conference at the Biltmore hotel.

Anticipating possible disasters and planning for protection to individuals which will insure the least possible interruption to the war effort, were outlined as the purposes of the conference.

Miss Jane Hoey, director of the Bureau of Public Assistance of the Social Security Board, under whose direction approximately 500 million dollars annually of federal funds matched by a similar amount of state and local funds are distributed to the needy aged, blind and dependent children, arrived yesterday from Washington to participate with southern welfare officials in the assumption of federal responsibilities under the program.

5 Million Allocated.
Miss Hoey told the conference that $5,000,000 for temporary war assistance was allocated last February. "This money will be of three types of assistance: (1) Temporary aid necessitated by enemy action to civilians residing in the United States; (2) dependents of civilians who are killed, disabled, interned or reported as missing, and (3) persons who are otherwise in need of assistance or services.

"Civilian war assistance may be given in cash allowances or arrangements may be made by the state and local welfare departments to provide temporary medical care, food, shelter, clothing and transportation."

The civilian war assistance program is to be operated by the state and local welfare agencies on behalf of the federal government, she pointed out.

"This means that we are utilizing the facilities of the permanently established state and local welfare agencies, their personnel and equipment, and the federal government will pay 100 per cent of the cost. While various state welfare agencies are understaffed to perform their regular permanent program, the commissioners convened in Atlanta have agreed patriotically to accept these new responsibilities," she declared.

Federal Aid.
A number of federal organizations are concerned with planning and providing services to civilian war casualties. These include, in addition to the Bureau of Public Assistance, which is charged with the administration of the program, the OGD, the Joint Committee on Evacuation, American Red Cross, Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance, U. S. Public Health Service, Children's Bureau and the Office of Defense Health and Welfare Services.

Illustrations of how the program works were given to the group. "An evacuee in California from the Philippines arrived destitute. Her husband was taken prisoner by the Japs. He was presumed to have assets in Washington. Civilian war assistance was provided to enable the wife to reach Washington where she had access to these assets.

"An OGD worker during a practice blackout was injured. He was buying the house in which his dependents live. Since provision of shelter is a civilian war assistance requirement, assistance is provided so that the family need not move out of this house to another if the family is in need and aid is necessary pending receipt of benefits from other sources."

Survivors of torpedoed ships and their dependents also come under the program, with the public welfare agencies assuming care of dependents of seamen killed, injured or captured in enemy action. The Red Cross assumes responsibility for other survivors and their families.

Miss Hoey termed the program one which "fills the gap in such cases until the individual obtains compensation, insurance or is again able to be self-supporting."

Dayton H. Frost, regional representative of the bureau which Miss Hoey heads, presided over the meeting. Richard H. Lyle, regional director of the Social Security Board, opened the conference.

State commissioners of public welfare in attendance include Miss Loula Dunn, Alabama; Leland Hatt, Florida; B. S. Miller, Georgia; W. F. Bond, Mississippi; Arthur B. Rivers, South Carolina, and Paul Savage, Tennessee.

ment. These surplus beans would go to waste if we didn't get them. And if they did, the farmers would lose the vegetable oils that are used in making munitions and the ground soybean meal would be lost to stock feeders."

The vegetable oils produced from soybeans, as well as cottonseed and peanuts, also are used for household purposes. Hutchinson said. He expressed belief that the industry will expand even after the war because midwestern farmers have found soybean growing more profitable than oats.

The surplus beans will be delivered here by the government, Hutchinson explained. After the crushing, the oil will be sold to refineries and eventually back to the government, while the meal will be sold as livestock food and as a mixture for fertilizers.

Gannett Quits As Assistant GOP Chairman

Pleased With Republican Gains in Election, He Tells Martin.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Frank E. Gannett, newspaper publisher, has resigned as assistant chairman of the Republican national committee, Chairman Joseph W. Martin Jr., announced today.

In his letter of resignation, Gannett described the Republican gains in the elections as a "most significant political uprising," and told Martin "I rejoice with you over the great victory."

The publisher said that he accepted the assistant chairmanship last September "because I felt it was of the utmost importance to our country that the strength of our party in the congress be increased."

"Now that what we fought for has been largely achieved," he continued, "I feel that I should tender to you my resignation to take effect immediately."

Accepting the resignation with regret, Martin told Gannett that he believed his contribution to this year's campaign "the way for a wider opportunity for the Republican party in 1944."

"I know the great sacrifice you made to assume so many of my burdens in the campaign which ended with a great victory for the cause of Americanism," he wrote. "That you would sacrifice your own large personal interests to aid in this fight for sound government is a tribute to your character and patriotism."

positing the smaller prepared tins at any tin can depot.

Tin is now No. 1 on our list of critical materials, Hall said. "There is no known substitute for tin in the manufacture of bearings and bushing for motors, in lining food cans for shipment to our armed forces and for other needs vital to the war effort. When a can is destined we recover both the tin and the steel."

Cans that contained oils, paints or varnishes are not usable. Uncle Sam wants the tins that contained your vegetables, canned meats, soups, jams, etc. If they are not forthcoming voluntarily, we face the probability of a mandatory order requiring the return of a tin can for each can purchased," Hall said.

Housewives are asked to prepare the tins by washing well, removing label, cutting off top and bottom, tucking ends inside the can and flattening the can by stepping on it.

Marine Wins Congressional Medal of Honor

Midway Hero Decorated Posthumously by President.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Captain Richard E. Fleming, who bombed Japanese warships almost from their mast tops in the Battle of Midway and died a hero's death, when his flaming plane plunged into the Pacific, became today the first Marine Corps aviator of the war to win the Congressional Medal of Honor.

President Roosevelt presented what he called "the finest medal in the world," posthumously to Fleming's mother, Mrs. Michael E. Fleming, of St. Paul, Minn.

It was as one parent to another that the chief executive told Mrs. Fleming that his own boy, "Jimmie," a Marine Corps major, also had been at Midway briefly during the fighting. Jimmie went over in a bomber from Pearl Harbor, he related, to replace a major who had been killed.

Mrs. Fleming Chokes.
Choking up but smiling, Mrs. Fleming took the medal and told the President "I'm very proud."

In all the history of Marine aviation, only three other fliers have received the highest decoration of the nation.

Gravely, Mr. Roosevelt read the citation for "extraordinary heroism and conspicuous intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty . . . in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States naval service."

It was told how Fleming, the 24-year-old flight officer of a Marine scout-bombing squadron saw his squadron commander shot down in an attack on an enemy plane carrier last June 4, led the remainder of the division with "fearless determination."

Navy Measures.
The Navy considers 1,500 feet the lowest a dive bomber can go and still have a fair chance of coming safely through a warship's cone of defensive fire. But Fleming had set his bomb mechanisms to explode when dropped from only a few hundred feet.

He released his bomb on the carrier from 400 feet and came out with only two minor wounds, although his plane was riddled by 79 hits.

The same night, when his squadron commander became separated from the flight, Fleming landed safely at his base in total darkness and heavy weather. With less than four hours' sleep, the daring captain led the squadron's second division in a glide and dive-bombing attack the next day on an enemy battleship.

Grudged Pressed Home.
Undeterred by a fateful approach glide, during which his ship was struck and set afire, the citation said, "he grimly pressed home his attack to an altitude of 500 feet, released his bomb to score a near miss on the stern of his target, then crashed to the sea in flames."

It was more or less an accident that Fleming got into aviation. He accompanied a friend, in December, 1938, to a building at the University of Minnesota where a board was giving physical examinations for the Army Air Corps. Taking the test on the spur of the moment, he was one of nine out of 200 applicants who passed.

Fleming remained in college, receiving a commission in his senior year as a second lieutenant in the Infantry Reserve. He resigned that commission after his graduation in 1939, enlisted in the Marine Corps, and went to the Pensacola (Fla.) Naval Air Station for his flight instruction.

Besides Mrs. Fleming at the White House ceremony today were her two remaining sons. One, Ward, wears the bar of a second lieutenant in the Army Air Corps. The younger, James, who still is in college at St. Paul, wants to become a Navy flyer.

Boy Scout Fund Drive Is Success at Thomson

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
"THOMSON, Ga., Nov. 24.—The annual Boy Scout financial campaign which was conducted last week was the most successful one in the history of scouting in Thomson, leaders stated. The drive was sponsored by the Board of Trade and Rotary Club and was under the direction of W. E. Hunt, chairman.

Mr. Hunt stated that $428 was raised on the day of the drive and that several contributions had been received since then.

Discussion of Dakar Indicated As Fighting French Body Meets

LONDON, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The National Committee of Fighting France met here today, apparently to discuss the situation arising from yesterday's announcement by Admiral Jean Darlan, former Vichy second-in-command now co-operating with the Allies, that all French West Africa had placed itself under his command.

General Georges Catroux, fighting French commissioner for the Far East and former commander of the French Nineteenth Army in Algeria, who arrived yesterday, attended the meeting.

While Allied quarters in Africa continued officially to regard the reported change in allegiance of Dakar and the rest of French West Africa as "purely a French matter," sources familiar with the situation believed the big force of French fighting men there were eager to join the Allies in their battle against the Germans and Italians.

Informed quarters in London said approximately 60,000 French troops and sailors were stationed at Dakar, and described them as "in better condition" than any other forces in the French empire. The Dakar radio quoted Governor General Pierre Boisson, of French West Africa, as saying that that territory "will remain completely and absolutely free from all foreign occupation."

General Jean Barreau, in an order of the day addressed to his West Africa forces, said action placing them under Admiral Darlan was "based entirely on the intentions of Marshal Petain."

Darlan has contended all along that he is carrying out Petain's wishes in co-operating with the Allies, explaining that the old marshal in occupied Vichy is no longer able to express his true desires.

With the status of all French ships a subject of wide conjecture, the Berlin radio broadcast a dispatch from Toulon, the big French mainland naval base on the Mediterranean, saying that the Vichy secretary of the Navy, Admiral Jean Abrial, had arrived there today. The admiral had "a number of conferences with various high officers of the naval board and French Marines," the German broadcast said.

While the status of the forces at Dakar still was not clear, Allied quarters assumed that the facilities of Dakar, most extensive of the African South Atlantic coast, would be thrown open to Allied war and merchant ships as were Oran, Casablanca and Algiers, wrested from French control by the American invasion of North Africa.

In any case, it was pointed out, Dakar appeared to have been removed as a possible base for Axis submarines operating in the South Atlantic.

Spokesmen for the Fighting French still had not expressed any reaction to the change in allegiance of French West Africa through its adherence to Admiral Darlan.

But men who know the attitude of the Fighting French authorities said that while the de Gaulleists undoubtedly rejoiced at the winning over of Dakar and the "prospects that France's role with the Allies is becoming increasingly important," they are consistently hostile to dealing with Darlan or any other "Vichyites."

by the eloquence of the 39-year-old judge.

He stated that sabotage within our borders was as treasonable as spiking the guns of our soldiers on the battlefronts, and denounced those who scheme "to destroy their neighbors and this nation." He asserted:

"Here then is the most iniquitous offense on the unholy list of crimes, an offense which imperils... the structure of our government, the production of tools for victory, the lives of our production workers... and the very ideals of free humanity."

"It is the court's duty in sentencing these defendants to make sure that the punishment meted out to them will act as a timely and solemn warning to all who would attempt to commit the smallest act of sabotage, as well as those who would reasonably traffic with the enemies of the United States."

"Likewise the sentence must serve notice upon the enemy that the cunningly devised scheme for the use of American citizens of German birth as pawns in the game of sabotage and espionage in this country is doomed to failure."

Trial Was Fair.
Judge Campbell reported the defendants had a fair trial—"a thing of the past" in the German Reich—and that mercy had been asked for the women because they were mothers.

Recalling the saboteurs' abortive plan to blow up American war plants, he declared the mothers who toil in war factories "in constant danger from saboteurs" also must be considered, and ruled that the three women had "forfeited any right to consideration as mothers."

However, he said the women undoubtedly followed the leadership of their husbands, and this impelled him to recognize "a distinction between the husbands' wives' degree of guilt."

The sabotage plot resulted in the execution of young Haupt and five associates August 8. Two other saboteurs were sent to prison.

Another aid of the saboteurs, Anthony Cramer, was convicted of treason November 8 in New York. His sentence has not been fixed.

In the first of the recent cycle of treason convictions, Max Stephan, of Detroit, was sentenced August 6 to be hanged for aiding a Nazi flyer who escaped from a Canadian concentration camp. He awaits a trip to the gallows.

Paul Warnholtz, attorney for the three couples in the Chicago case, filed notice that he would appeal.

White Flags of Peace

Fly in Genoa Windows

LONDON, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The Daily Mail reported today from the Italian frontier in Switzerland that white sheets, signifying desire of the Italians for peace, were hung from the windows in Genoa when King Vittorio Emanuele and Crown Prince Umberto visited the heavily bombed industrial city in northern Italy.

The King and Crown Prince were reported to have attended funeral rites for victims of recent RAF raids in Genoa.

F. D. R., Arroyo Talk Economy For Americas

Raising Purchasing Power Is Aim of Nation's Neighbor Policy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(AP) President Roosevelt said today that raising the living standards and increasing the purchasing power of the smaller and poorer South American countries was part of this nation's good neighbor policy.

He had had, he said at a press conference, an interesting discussion with President Carlos Arroyo Del Rio, of Ecuador, now a guest at the White House. This, he added, had turned upon two problems:

(1) The immediate problem of the war, and the general solidarity of the nations of North and South America.

(2) The future question of trying to get an economy for North and South America which will raise the standards and wealth of the smaller and poorer nations, without hurting the economy of the United States.

The President regarded the latter question in terms of increasing purchasing power and compared it with what had been done in the southern part of the United States since he became President. At that time, he said, there was little money in the deep south for store purchases. The storekeepers' turnover was negligible. Purchasing power, he continued, was increased to the benefit of all—the southern purchaser, the southern storekeeper and the northern factory which produced the things sold.

There would be a hue and cry against helping the smaller South American countries in this fashion, he said, but actually, as in the case of the south, such a program would be of benefit to everybody.

The same thing was true, he added, of his plans for rehabilitating countries occupied by American troops. The whole should be regarded not only from the point of view of humanitarianism, but from that of the American pocketbook.

He plans to make a radio address on the general question soon, he said.

Annapolis To Fete Arroyo Tomorrow

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 24.—(AP) Celebrating his first North American Thanksgiving Day, President Carlos A. Arroyo del Rio of Ecuador and his official party of 16 will arrive at the U. S. Naval Academy at noon Thursday for luncheon with Rear Admiral John R. Beardsall, academy superintendent.

The party will be greeted immediately upon their arrival at the academy grounds by the customary 21-gun salute and four ruffles and flourishes, and a second salute will follow his departure after a midshipmen regimental parade on Worden Field.

climb through that fence, until it was discovered the fence ended a few yards further on. Marks were found which indicated the killers and their victim had walked around the end of that obstacle, and had not gone through it. Police learned from employees of the club that lights were seen in the clubhouse at about 9 o'clock, but no one saw Mr. Thomas' car leave. However, it was gone. Officers said they believed the robbers killed Mr. Thomas in the woods, came back to the club house, took what they wanted, and then sped away in the green sedan. Several said they believed the murderers filled the tank of the car from the club's pump. Mr. Thomas' gas rationing card was not taken.

Wide Loot Selection
The club manager, the brother-in-law of Mrs. Newton Thomas, resided at 3285 Whitley avenue, Hapeville, but spent many nights in a private bedroom at the club. He had been manager of it since the death of his brother, Newton Thomas, who built the beautiful course with its five silver lakes in 1926.

Mrs. Newton Thomas, his sister-in-law, and his daughter, Mrs. Chapman, stayed at the club house all morning and early afternoon until the body was discovered. Police were amazed by the selection of loot that the robbers took with them.

Only one pint of an inexpensive whiskey was missing, but several bottles had been opened in the barroom and drinks taken from them. Sergeant J. O. Perry, of the county police identification bureau, obtained a number of fingerprints from these bottles.

Nearly $75 in cash in the register in the barroom (which is on a terrace floor below the main counter room where Mr. Thomas apparently was first attacked), had not been touched though the cash drawer was open.

In the golf professional's shop it was found the killers had taken three wooden clubs from the golf bag of Jack Como, of Atlanta, a No. 2 iron and a putter from the golf bag of Dr. W. Frank Wells, other clubs from bags in the lockers and had taken a yellow pair of golf shoes said to belong to R. F. Sullivan, of Atlanta.

From the counter room upstairs the robbers got six cases of U. S. Royal golf balls, one or two cases of a cheaper make ball, but had not touched the cheapest balls nor the used balls which lay about.

Candy Also Missing.
Roscoe Mullins, who visited Mr. Thomas frequently and had been to see him Monday afternoon, said some candy was missing also. However, the counter room was little disturbed when Collins came to work at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. In their hurry the robbers dropped a dollar bill and two pennies on the floor, but numerous tables and chairs were in their accustomed places.

Back of the counter room cash register, where the first blow apparently was dealt, was a big sign which reads "We Ain't Mad With Nobody."

Planes Join Search.
"George used to tell me all the time that if anybody wanted to rob him all they had to do was say so," Mullins recalled. "He said he had insurance and he would not put up a fight and risk his life."

All day, while the hunt for Mr. Thomas was going on, little Negro caddies who usually would be busy carrying golf bags around the course, sat around the big stove and looked on wide-eyed.

Yesterday was the first time the Civil Air Patrol planes of Atlanta had ever been used in an effort to solve a murder.

Leo S. Bosarge, Atlanta squadron commander; Lieutenant James Hinson, Pilot Officer S. A. Buchanan, Observer Sam Arnovitz, Lieutenant George Thurman and Observer J. B. Alexander circled the area for an hour and a half in an effort to find Mr. Thomas' abandoned car.

Car Thought Near By.
Police said they believed the car will be found abandoned somewhere near by. Relatives of Mr. Thomas said they do not believe the robbers got much money.

Mr. Thomas customarily banked his cash on Mondays and made a trip to the bank that day, Mullins said. His daughter, Mrs. Chapman, asserted she thought probably he kept less than $100 in his old iron safe.

An inquest is to be held by Mrs. Paul Donehoo, the coroner, after the body has been examined by county physicians.

The ambulance of Carlos Hemperley took the body from the woods to the Hemperley funeral home.

Mr. Thomas' wife died in 1935, and since that time he had spent most of his time at the club.

Survivors Listed.
In addition to his daughter, Mrs. Chapman, he is survived by three other daughters, Mrs. Alton Ballard and Miss Wenonah Thomas, of Hapeville, and Mrs. Hoke S. Bell, of Savannah, and two sons, Blythe Thomas, of Savannah, and George Harold Ayer Thomas Jr., of Hapeville.

During the morning, while relatives were at the funeral home, police said it was clear and the moon was bright late Monday night.

There were a few marks of a scuffle in the leaves where the body was found but apparently Thomas was felled by repeated blows on the right side of his head and face and then was shot through the left lower jaw. He lay on his right side, and there were powder burns over his left cheek and neck.

He had cuts on his hands and legs and dark bruises about his head and chest also.

Collins, the Negro bar man, told police he found the clubhouse locked up tight when he arrived for work. He noticed Mr. Thomas' car was gone, he said, but thought perhaps the manager had decided to spend the night in Hapeville.

Opened Window.
Collins said he forced open a small window on the first floor of the clubhouse and went to the main counter room, where he was met by "Skipper" and "Tom."

The place was cold and he built a fire in the iron stove. He had finished this and was starting to sweep out when he saw the red splash near the cash register.

Collins said he was startled then and rushed over to the room

PETS OF MURDERED MAN—"Skipper," an 11-year-old "just dog," and "Tom," a 12-year-old yellow cat (here being fed tid-bits by R. L. Mullins, of Hapeville), were the pets of George H. A. Thomas, murdered manager of the Black Rock Country Club. They probably saw robbers attack Mr. Thomas Monday night before he was finally killed in the woods on the golf course. But pets can't talk and so they are alive.

atives did not know whether Mr. Thomas was dead or alive, but fearing the worst, Mrs. Newton Thomas and Mrs. Chapman said they believed some "degenerate white persons" had done it.

"You remember, when Marion Miles, the famous golfer, and her mother were murdered in Kentucky, everybody thought it might have been done by a caddy or some employee, but they found out it was done by some degenerate men," Mrs. Thomas said.

Are Suspected.
Carter and Thompson, however, said they had a definite reason to suspect two persons, but they would not reveal the names of these persons.

"One of them was not at home Monday night at all," Carter said, adding he had asked that man and another be picked up for questioning.

Funeral Held At Jackson for F. S. Etheridge
Rites Are Conducted for Well-Known Banker, Businessman.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
JACKSON, Ga., Nov. 24.—Funeral services for Frank Scarbrough Etheridge, 84, former widely known banker and business leader, who died Monday at the home of his niece, Mrs. R. F. Godard, in Quincy, Fla., were held at the First Baptist church in Jackson this afternoon. The Rev. G. A. Briggs, pastor, officiated and burial was in the Jackson cemetery.

From 1880 until a few years ago, Mr. Etheridge lived in Jackson and was interested in various business enterprises. He served as president of the Jackson Banking Company from 1890 until 1931, was president of the Jackson National Bank from 1908 to 1920, and served as president of the Atlanta Trust Company and headed a group of banks in middle Georgia, including Floyville, Social Circle, McDonough and other cities.

In the field of religious affairs he was a leading layman of the Baptist church, served as Sunday school superintendent for years, then on to the spot where he could see the body.

He ran the way back and told Officers Keeler and Mullins. Mr. Thomas was lying on his right side, with bloodstains marking the dead leaves beneath him. His clothing was dry, indicating further to the police that the murder took place late Monday night, after the rain was over.

Cleat Night.
Police said it was clear and the moon was bright late Monday night.

There were a few marks of a scuffle in the leaves where the body was found but apparently Thomas was felled by repeated blows on the right side of his head and face and then was shot through the left lower jaw. He lay on his right side, and there were powder burns over his left cheek and neck.

British Desert Army Poised for Punch At El Agheila

By FRANK L. MARTIN.

CAIRO, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The British Eighth Army hounded the remnants of the fleeing Axis desert army beyond the native Libyan village of Agedabia today and poised for another punch to throw at El Agheila's defenses, where the Germans were believed gathering all their available strength to hold the pursuit off Tripoli.

(In London British military sources expressed the belief that there would be a three or four-day lull in the desert, pointing out that General Sir Bernard Montgomery is not likely to make any half-prepared lunge at the Germans. Some time is required to bring up guns and supplies sufficient for a knockout at El Agheila, these sources said.)

From El Agheila onward there is a vast desert waste up to Misurata, an oasis 11 miles long and 3 1/2 wide with a population of about 5,000.

It is defended by a permanent garrison and has a good airport and fair harbor. A big salt marsh to the east forms a natural defense position and to the west stretch miles of coastal dunes. But from a defense point of view Misurata is none too advantageous because the flank could be turned readily.

The pursuit caught up with Marshal Erwin Rommel's rear guard west of Agedabia after the British entry into the native village yesterday, and today the head of the retreating enemy column was reported approaching El Agheila, 70 miles on to the west.

Enemy troops were found to have abandoned the Gialo water-hole, 200 miles south of Bengasi, and the oasis was taken over by the British without opposition.

Air attacks on the Axis came mainly from Malta yesterday. Two-engine fighters attacked Sicilian points, shipping in the Mediterranean and transport planes, three of which were shot down. A small Axis schooner was hit by aerial cannon fire and a freighter was sunk by Malta torpedo planes.

Inspection Shops Saving Army Tires

Since the inauguration of tire maintenance instruction shops, tires and tubes discarded by the Army after inspection have decreased from 57 to 17 per cent, it was reported yesterday.

Captain Hugh M. Lokey Jr., in charge of rubber conservation for the Fourth Service Command, attributed the drop to the Army's intensive rubber conservation program, which now includes education in tire maintenance.

"From one to two enlisted men are selected from each unit in tactical organizations to attend one of the 12 schools in this command for instruction in the proper care of tires and tubes."

WATCH A DOG GO FOR SECURITY!

1 When I heard canned dog food was going off the market I didn't know what to do — for that was all Mack had eaten.

2 Someone told me about Security... how kennels feed it... how veterinarians recommend it. Friends said their dogs really liked Security.

3 In a few days Mack became accustomed to Security. Now he goes after it. I'm saving about 1/2! 2 lbs. of Security make over 5 lbs. of food with water added.

CONTAINS DEHYDRATED MEAT MEAL!

Aren't you looking for a food your dog will like? Here is one—Security! Made with dehydrated meat meal! It contains Vitamins A, B, C, D, E, and K, and minerals. Security is not a new food. It has been sold for 10 years. It's biologically assayed, kennel tested. Don't judge Security by other dry foods you may have tried. MEAL and CUBE forms in 2 and 5-lb packages at your grocer's. Remember the name SECURITY. Look for the purple box or box.

Wheat Crop Short This Year, Hungary Notifies Axis Nations

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Hungary has notified Germany and Italy that her wheat crop is too short this year to supply the Axis allies, the Budapest radio reported today, simultaneously with announcement from Vichy that Hitler's chief extractor of supplies has arrived in Hungary.

Lajos Szasz, minister of supplies, told the Hungarian parliament that "with a harvest of 26,000,000 quintals (85,300,000 bushels) we are unfortunately in no position to supply any bread grain to our allies," said a Budapest broadcast recorded by the Federal Communications Commission. It was made available by the Office of War Information.

His report coincided with the report from Vichy, also heard here, that Dr. Clodius, chief Nazi negotiator of trade agreements, was in Budapest.

Wheat has long been Hungary's chief export, but this year's crop is more than a million bushels under that of five years ago, when the production was 86,744,000 bushels.

The Hungarian official's statement was intended to ally a feeling among the people that the Axis countries were taking too much grain, the broadcast indicated. A Berlin radio dispatch recently announced the Hungarian bread ration had been cut from 200 grams to 150 grams (about 5 ounces).

"When we make these facts (of the grain shortage) available to the public," Szasz said, "we shall put an end to the whispering rumor campaign that tried to tell public opinion that the supply difficulties are due to shipments to Germany and Italy. It is said that we have sent more to Germany and Italy than we could have afforded after meeting internal needs."

"I have put the position frankly to the representatives of the German and Italian governments."

Condition of Heifetz

Shows Improvement

The condition of Jascha Heifetz, the concert violinist, who was stricken with a mild attack of influenza here Saturday, showed slight improvement, it was revealed last night. He is expected to be able to continue his concert tour within the next few days.

Heifetz filled his Atlanta engagement Saturday with 102 degrees of fever, and as a precautionary measure his programs at Birmingham, Ala., and Cleveland, Ohio, this week were cancelled.

Carroll Holds Thanksgiving Service Today

Clifford M. Townsend, Farmer Leader, on Program.

CARROLLTON, Ga., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Clifford M. Townsend, of Washington, national administrator of the Agricultural Adjustment and Conservation Agency, is on the program to deliver a Thanksgiving address here tomorrow, Wednesday.

Townsend's visit was arranged as part of a week-long observance of Thanksgiving by Carroll county, giving thanks for food and freedom in 1942. Churches launched the observance Sunday with special services. Schools, civic clubs and other communities in the county arranged programs during the week.

Major M. C. Wiley, head of the arrangements committee, said the program was set up "to thank God for food and freedom" and to give recognition to farmers who have achieved a record breaking production this year despite many handicaps.

Reds Kill or Capture 27,000 More Germans

west of Stalingrad there was a significant subsidiary action mentioned by the Russians. One Red Army column driving straight down the western banks of the Volga captured the villages of Tomilin, Akatovka and Latashanka to link up directly with Red Army troops who for three months have held the northern factory district of Stalingrad.

This presaged an early rout of Nazi forces still entrenched in the ruins of that industrial city, in the opinion of observers. The greater arms of the offensive undoubtedly also will force an imminent decision on Nazi chieftains who had been told by Adolf Hitler to take Stalingrad at all costs.

The northern army of the great "Russian bear trap" had reached the town of Surovikino, apparently beyond the Serafimovich sector, 85 miles northwest of Stalingrad on the Don river.

The central army after slicing southwest from the Volga to Kalach on the easternmost point of the Don river bend, crossed that river apparently to make a junction with other Red army units crossing in the Kletskeya region, 75 miles northwest of Stalingrad.

With Nazi railroad arteries cut both above and below Stalingrad these central armies now were severing road links that ran straight eastward in the Don river elbow, and crossed that river by Nazi pontoons at a point only 25 miles short of Stalingrad.

It was in the Don river elbow that the Russians said they surrounded and captured the remnants of three Nazi divisions, including their generals and staff members.

Villages Occupied.

A six-mile advance in the Don loop area yesterday found the Russians occupying the villages of Zimovsky, Zamyshinka, Bishny, Perekopka, Trekhostroskaya, and Sirotinskaya.

The southern Red army fanning out along the Stalingrad-Novorossiysk railway reached Sadovoye in a 12-mile advance from Aksai. This village is more than 50 miles below besieged Stalingrad. The villages of Umantsevo and Peregruzny also were taken in this advance.

The London Express quoted a Stockholm dispatch saying the Germans had "begun to pull out from Stalingrad."

Germans Admit Soviet 'Onrush'

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), Nov. 24.—(AP)—The German high command acknowledged today that Russian forces attacking southwest of Stalingrad had penetrated German defense lines on the Don, and military quarters said tonight the Soviet offensive is continuing.

The Soviets, described as "on-rushing," were advancing, regardless of losses, these quarters said, adding that Luftwaffe bombers were seeking to relieve front-line pressure against German and Rumanian troops by raiding Soviet troop concentrations and supply lines.

The high command said "counter-measures are proceeding against the Russian forces which accomplished the breakthrough."

Military quarters declared "savagely fighting" was in progress in the great Don river loop region where the Russians were said to have suffered heavy losses.

One example of these heavy losses cited "several hundred" Soviet troops as having been killed by German defenders in a few days.

German and Rumanian troops were described as being engaged in severe battle with advancing Russians, but these quarters said further details on how far the Russians had proceeded, or whether they were encircled, could not be obtained. This was attributed to customary German military reticence in discussing matters which are still pending.

Meanwhile, the Axis-controlled Dutch radio quoted Berlin military authorities as saying the Soviet offensive "continues undiminished."

Fighting still continues within Stalingrad, it was reported, but no details were given. German artillery was reported to have shelled successfully various important objectives in beleaguered Leningrad, while in the Caucasus area, at the opposite end of the lengthy front, unfavorable weather conditions prevented fighting action, it was said.

Jan Valtin Taken Into Custody, Waits Deportation to Germany

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Richard Julius Herman Krebs, whose sensational book on his experiences as an agent of the Russian and German secret police was a best seller, has been taken into custody on a warrant ordering his deportation to Germany.

His apprehension near Bethel, Conn., was announced today by Attorney General Biddle, who approved the deportation order based on alleged violations of the 1917 and 1924 immigration acts. Krebs, who wrote "Out of the Night" under the name Jan Valtin, is accused of illegally entering the country after once having been arrested and deported after committing a crime (perjury) involving moral turpitude.

The author had been at liberty in $5,000 bond pending a decision by the immigration board of appeals on his appeal from the deportation proceedings. The board voted unanimously for the deportation order on the ground that Krebs had not been a person of good moral character during the past five years and that he was otherwise deportable.

Since he cannot be deported to Germany until after the war, it was assumed he would be interned as an enemy alien. Krebs is a native of Darmstadt, Germany, and is 37 years old.

He once declared he was "the comintern's chief trouble maker on the waterfront of Europe" and his book described in great detail his work as an agent of the Russian OGPU and the German Gestapo.

Krebs testified before the immigration appeals board that he led a life "of conspiracy and violence" as a member of the Communist party in Germany from 1923 to 1937. The Communists, he said, sent him to America as an agent of the Russian secret police to stir up trouble along the waterfront.

He came to the United States in 1926 from Shanghai by way of Canada, he testified, after previously making brief visits to this country in 1921 and 1923-24. Krebs assaulted a Los Angeles storekeeper, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 10 years in San Quentin prison. He was paroled after 39 months and deported on December 9, 1929.

Subsequently, the Justice Department said, he admitted he had committed perjury by intentionally misstating the motives for the assault, thus "concealing the Communist party's connection with the crime."

Krebs was pardoned by the governor of California last year.

In Germany, he was tried for high treason and sentenced to prison for 13 years. The Germans released him in February, 1937, after he signed a pledge that he had become "a devoted son of the great German fatherland."

Supreme Court Personnel Change

Two personnel changes in the Georgia supreme court were announced yesterday.

Judge B. W. Fortson, of Washington, Ga., former member of the state legislature from Calhoun county, and the father of Senator Ben W. Fortson Jr., has been sworn in as chief deputy clerk. He replaced Henry Cobb, who joined the United States Army and now is in Virginia.

Emory W. Fountain, Atlanta attorney, has been appointed law secretary to Chief Justice Charles Reid. Fountain replaced Marshall Allison, of Lavonia, former assistant attorney general, who resigned to do special legal work.

This is typed as a small tribute to draft boards—the arbiters which decide whether a young man should be deferred for one reason or another or slapped into a uniform.

Theirs is a tough job. Not so tough, I should think, in a large city, where names are merely names and no body knows the victims personally.

But take a draft board in an average county seat town—where everybody knows the subject under discussion, his mother, his father, his grandfather, his aunt, his farm, his job, his character, his disposition. Why, the board members know more about him than he knows about himself. They know whether he's hard working and the genuine support of dependents—or whether he isn't worth a tinker's cussword and maybe the Army will make a man out of him.

The draftee, I think, is usually willing to take what comes along without a howl. But the mothers and the aunts! And the influence they can exert. Smaller town affairs are pretty well tied up with kinfolks and mortgages and debts and various obligations—not to mention social contacts.

The draft board which enlists a young man in the face of protests is made up of heroes.

Which reminds me that right here in Atlanta a draft board chairman told me of a case his board had considered.

Case of a fine, upstanding, 100 per cent perfect young man who didn't want to go to war and get all muddy and tired out and associate with all kinds of private soldiers. That is, his parents objected. From what I heard, he was willing to take it.

His folks tried everything. They pulled wires on politicians and bankers and big guys with a drag—and members of the draft board had dealings with all of them. They exhausted every effort. And the hard-boiled board, the cruel wretches, finally sent him to an Army camp. That, I may say, took intestinal fortitude, as the expression is modified for family reading.

Unwelcome Visitor

Trap set in our attic a few days ago caught—and killed—our first flying squirrel.

Pretty little thing! They don't really fly. They have a membrane stretched from front legs to hind legs and they can take off like a glider. Always coming down.

Friends tell me flying squirrels in the attic can make a lot of noise and eat up a lot of things. They are a pest and a nuisance—and all that.

We have been infested with ordinary gray squirrels for years, and I like the little devils, though they do eat all the pecans. But they have stayed out of the house and disturb nobody except the neighborhood dogs—which have abandoned the idea of catching one.

I trust my home will not be

Draft Boards Do Have Tough Times With Favorite Sons

infested by flying squirrels. Because I do not like noises in the night.

Some years ago it fell to my lot to inhabit my home, all alone, for a week. It was an old house and it creaked and groaned with every change of temperature. I could hear burglars' footsteps every half-hour.

But the worst was mice. Or a mouse. Here I was, all alone, no weapon except the heel of a shoe. And strange noises. All I could do was lie awake and perspire and dread the worst.

As nearly as I could figure, mice had organized two football teams, with a hickory nut serving as the ball. And they were playing a hot game on the hardwood floor.

When I figured that out I wasn't bothered any longer. I tried to keep score—by ear—for a time. And then slumber overtook me. Next morning both teams—and the ball—had vanished.

But I don't want flying squirrels in my house. They'd be welcome to food—I'd even fix it up for them every morning if I knew what they like. But I don't like them jumping around and bumping into doors and making weird noises.

I trust this No. 1 flying squirrel was a scout, sent out to spy the land—and that his fate will keep his former friends and relatives away.

Quail Season

This is to notify my 1,195 acquaintances among quail hunters that I am going out of town for a week, so they will please place on ice all the quail they have promised me and call me up around December 3. I will engage a truck and send it around.

For goin' on 27 years I have sustained life by hope deferred—the quail, the doves, the fish, friends have gone out to slaughter for my sake. In the meantime, I have subsisted on canned salmon, canned corn beef hash and excellent food prepared by the Misthiss of the Manor. And, on occasion, fine leg of lamb, with brown gravy.

But no quail, no doves, no fish, except that pure used from the super-duper grocery stores. A former friend did once send me a chunk of venison which dilled our latchet and plumb ruined my dog's teeth.

I certainly would like to devour a couple of plump quail—or "patridges" as I knew them as a youth. But I have no hunting license, no friends with plantations, no gun. And I couldn't hit a grounded barrage balloon at 30 paces.

Still, fried chicken isn't so bad. I mean home-cooked chicken, without batter or shellac varnish.

Government Stops Enlistment Of Aircraft, Shipbuilding Men

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(AP)

The government acted today to assure retention of a sufficient army of war workers on the home front by forbidding enlistment of essential aircraft and shipbuilding workers and expanding the list of necessary jobs to one out of every nine types.

Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey announced the Army and Navy will refuse to accept volunteers holding essential jobs in the aircraft and shipbuilding industries as well as men who have resigned such jobs within 60 days before they apply for enlistment.

To protect those industries from a drain of necessary men, Hershey said he telegraphed every state that local draft boards should "refuse a release to any registrant who is, or should be, classified in II-B or III-B" and who is employed in the two industries.

Gallup Poll Reveals: Labor Policy Dissatisfaction

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 24.—With a greatly increased Republican representation which will convene in early January, legislation to control labor unions is certain to arise.

Two recent studies conducted by the Institute—one just before the elections and one just after—shed light on important aspects of this problem.

In a study made during the campaign, the Institute attempted to discover to what extent the public favored the administration's labor policy.

Institute field reporters throughout the nation asked a cross-section of several issues—conduct of the war; government economy, price control, labor unions regulation, and taxes—they would like to see discussed.

Highest on the list was price control, which has already received much attention. Next highest came labor unions regulation.

Of those people interested in the issue of labor unions regulation, the following question was asked: "Do you approve or disapprove of the government's policy with regard to labor unions regulation?"

Answers lined up this way:

APPROVE 31
DISAPPROVE 63
NO OPINION 6

No other issue received such a high vote of disapproval.

This finding is consistent with other Institute studies of public opinion on specific questions on labor unions regulation.

The second study, made after the election, will be the subject of much debate in Washington circles. This study was designed to find out who voted and who did not vote in the recent elections.

Of four major occupational groups, the Institute's preliminary findings reveal that in proportion to their numbers professional and business people went in greatest numbers to the polls. Farmers came next, and then white collar workers. Labor unions turned out fewer in proportion to their numbers than any of the other major groups.

The reasons for their failure to turn out votes except in isolated spots will be the subject of much speculation. It may have been due to apathy. It may have been due to the fact that labor is less enthusiastic about the present administration than formerly. In the past it has given the administration heavy support. Or it may have been due to outside factors such as the inability to meet local voting requirements because of migration from one center to another.

Regardless of the reason, the inability of organized labor to deliver a larger vote in the recent elections will have important political repercussions.

Drain of Industries.
The intention, he declared, was to prevent a drain on the two war industries which might cripple some plants if not controlled. He reported local boards had been directed to call such workers "gradually" if they can be replaced, so as not to interfere with war production.

The list of jobs which the WMC considers essential to the war effort follows:

Production of aircraft and parts; production of ships, boats and parts; production of ordnance and accessories; Army munition production; agriculture; food processing; forestry; logging; lumbering; reconstruction; coal mining.

Metal Mining.
Metal mining; non-metallic mining and processing and quarrying; smelting, refining and rolling of metals; metal shapes and forgings production; metal products finishing; industrial and agricultural equipment production; machinery production; chemicals and allied products production; rubber products production.

Leather products production; textiles production; apparel production; stone, clay and glass products; petroleum, natural gas and petroleum and coal products; finished lumber products production.

Transportation equipment production; transportation services; materials for packing and shipping products production; communication equipment production; communication services; heating, power and illumination services; repair services; health and welfare services; educational services; governmental services other than federal.

British Bombers Raid Jap Air Base in Burma

NEW DELHI, Nov. 24.—(AP)—

British bombers raided a Japanese airbase at Meiktila, Burma, south of Mandalay last night and, in addition to bombing the runways, started large fires in other parts of the airbase. A British communiqué said.

Smoke from the fires rose to 7,000 feet and the fires could be seen from a distance of 100 miles, the communiqué said. None of the British planes was lost.

The body will be taken to Murfreesboro, her native home, for funeral and burial.

African Front Fighting Flares On New Sector

fighting as far south as the Gulf of Gabes.

The reported new landings would place Axis forces across the coastal road leading from Tunis to Italian Tripoli, the last potential refuge for Marshal Rommel's desert armies retreating westward across Libya.

The Axis intention apparently was to link its forces at Bizerte and Tunis via the coastal road with the garrisons of Tripoli and with Rommel's forces, too, if they eventually escape the British pursuit from the east.

Axis lies midway between Tunis and Tripoli near the top of the Gulf of Gabes, and Gabes itself is some 65 miles to the south, where the coastline turns from the north to eastward line leading to Tripoli.

Shuttling over the Sicilian channel arena, the Allied airmen blasted the Axis' African port of entry at Bizerte, strafed the Italian air base at Palermo, downed three planes off the North African shore and, according to radio Algiers, destroyed nine planes in a Tunisian field.

Much of the Allied air strength springs from Malta, the rocky island bastion 63 miles south of Sicily—the same hornets' nest which has destroyed more than 1,000 enemy planes in this war. Axis air fleets drawn from all parts of Europe were reported by the Morocco radio to have given Algiers four alerts last night and raided Tebessa, on the Tunisian-Algerian border. Vichy also reported Bone and Pougé, forward Allied landing ports, were "heavily bombed."

The newest of the Spitfires which won air dominance over the European coast knifed through the Axis attackers and downed a third of one flight attacking French ground forces. Twin-engined United States fighters soared into the fray to protect Flying Fortresses battering Axis ports.

Both sides still were building up their resources on the ground, while in Libya the British Eighth Army pushed past Agedabia toward El Agheila and also forced the enemy to withdraw from the Gialo oasis, which threatened the British left flank.

Allied reports agreed with the Axis that the enemy had extended his foothold in South Tunisia, but Allied headquarters said there was no evidence that these forces were linked up with troops in Tripoli.

Axis forces extended south along the Gulf of Gabes, where they made earlier landings. Berlin claimed the capture of an important railroad junction, which might be Graira, on the coastal line from Tunis to Gabes and due west of Mahares.

The Germans also claimed the Gafsa oasis, from which the French reported yesterday they had repulsed Axis units.

Political debate on North Africa was revived by the adherence of French West Africa and Dakar to the Allies, giving them a valuable base for antisubmarine warfare.

While an assembly of Fighting French leaders in London discussed developments, Laborite Richard R. Stokes angrily alleged in the house of commons that Prime Minister Churchill had suppressed a scheduled radio address Sunday by General Charles De Gaulle following the United States military rapprochement with Admiral Jean Darlan, former head of the Vichy fighting forces.

Walter D. Kallenbach, blind trumpeter, who is a speaker for the evangelistic crusade being held this week at the Baptist tabernacle, will speak at Shorter college at 10 o'clock this morning. At 8 o'clock tonight he will speak at the church on "Which Will Win, Hate or Love?" and he will explain "Why a Blind Man Thanks God" at Thanksgiving services in the tabernacle at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Thanksgiving services will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Ormewood Park Presbyterian church, it was announced yesterday. Dr. Ralph Gilliam will be the guest minister.

Cammon Theological seminary will observe its fifty-ninth anniversary at 12:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon, December 3. The Rev. Nat G. Long, pastor of the Glenn Memorial Methodist church, will deliver the address.

Competitive examinations for zone deputy collectors for the Treasury Department were announced yesterday by O. E. Myers, regional civil service director. The salary is $2,000 a year. Application forms may be obtained at any first or second-class post office.

mess hall served as the "chow" line moves along. After dinner they'll take the "platoon" of kids to the post theater to see a full feature, Abbott and Costello in "Who Done It," along with a cartoon and a current newsreel.

Then, they'll visit the athletic office and draw all kinds of sports equipment for games, all kinds of games on the athletic field, because the turkey would be digested after the show.

They'll Parade. They'll put on a parade as the next feature. A battalion parade on the parade ground with the post military band playing stirring marches as the troops pass in review after the retreat ceremony.

They'll pass in review for the kids who'll be standing on the grandstand with the commanding officer. They'll strut their stuff for those kids. They'll make their eyes pop.

They'll take them to the Service Club after that for an evening snack, including hot dogs, hamburgers, milk and ice cream. That's if they have any room left for more food. It'll be there, anyhow.

They'll take them to post theater No. 2 for the presentation of the USO camp show called "Hullabaloo," which is scheduled to begin at 6:30 o'clock.

They'll be plenty tired by then, those kids, so the soldiers will convey them back to the ophanage and "discharge" them, with a promise that they'll see each other again while the soldiers are in Atlanta and if not—they'll be pen pals anyhow.

That's almost all of the story, but not quite all.

More than a week ago the soldiers decided to take up a post-wide collection to buy Thanksgiving baskets for the needy. They raised more than $600. So, they called a welfare organization and obtained a list containing the names of 125 needy families in Atlanta and vicinity. The baskets will be delivered by the soldiers themselves with a plain card reading "Johnnie Doughboy, United States Army." The baskets will not contain food for merely one or two meals, but enough for an entire week.

The soldier in the new streamlined Army has a gun, rifle or pistol like any other soldier and whatmore he's got a heart, too—and his own way of saying, "Thank you!"

Heavy Fighting Rages at Buna On Land, in Air

1,000-Pound Bombs Are Dropped on Jap Air-drome at Lae.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Wednesday, Nov. 25. (AP)—The decision at Buna still hung in the balance today as the Japs, backed into a narrowing pocket about the northeastern New Guinea coastal base, engaged the Allies in heavy fighting. The high command reported in its noon communique.

Briefly the communique dealt with the nearing climax of the momentous Allied offensive, saying only that in the area "heavy fighting by land and air rages throughout the position."

Yesterday's communique reported the Allies had entered Gona 12 miles up the coast from Buna, and were closing in on the Japs' only remaining foothold in the sector.

The command reported heavy air units dropped 1,000-pound bombs, the most potent so far reported in use in the New Guinea fighting, on the air-drome runway at Lae, a Jap base northwest of Buna from which the enemy could be sending aerial support to its beleaguered troops. That raid occurred last night.

Allied planes raided Portuguese Timor, where the Japs recently have been reported sending troops and equipment.

The Japs sent 18 enemy bombers for their first raid in force in some time on Darwin, Australia, last night but the communique reported "no damage." One bomber was shot down by night interceptors and another by antiaircraft fire.

Another potential source of aerial support to the Buna Japs, the air-drome at Kavieng in New Ireland, was raided last night by the Allies and fires were started among grounded aircraft.

'Bunco King' Ordered To Pay Wife $40,000

Mrs. Ruth Woodward Also Awarded Final Divorce Decree.

The wheel of fortune swung the wrong way for Floyd Woodward, once dubbed "the bunco king," yesterday and stopped on a number which pays $40,000 of his money.

The $40,000 payment was ordered by Superior Judge Paul S. Etheridge, to be paid as alimony to Woodward's former wife, Mrs. Ruth Weaver Woodward, who, in suing for a divorce in Fulton domestic relations court, was awarded a final decree, and the alimony, said to be one of the biggest awards of its kind in the history of Fulton county courts.

Ironically enough, it was said, Woodward, due to be freed from the Atlanta federal penitentiary next March 20, was virtually immune to prosecution on the murder charge while Mrs. Woodward was still his wife. She was said to have been an eyewitness to the slaying of Ed Mills in a downtown hotel in 1920, and could not, under the law, be a witness against her husband on the indictment which accuses him of the murder of Mills. Woodward married her after the alleged crime.

20 Years Ago. Woodward disappeared for 20 years after Mills' death. He was apprehended on the west coast and brought back to Atlanta to face a federal charge of using the mails to defraud. On a plea of guilty, he was sent to the penitentiary for two and a half years.

Most of the witnesses to the Mills slaying more than 20 years ago have vanished, with the exception of Mrs. Woodward, it was said yesterday.

Another odd feature of the Woodward case was the presence on the divorce jury of J. Russell Porter, who was a member of the grand jury which investigated the bunco frauds of many years ago and indicted Woodward.

About $80,000 of funds owned by Woodward, it was said yesterday, are held by the federal government in California for settlement of $30,000 in income taxes.

Decision of Court. The decision of the Atlanta court will be sent to California to be made the order of the court of jurisdiction there. In Judge Etheridge's decision he ruled that the $40,000 alimony must be paid within 10 days. If not, Woodward will be cited for contempt.

Judge Etheridge awarded Mrs. Woodward's attorneys, W. Paul Carpenter and Ellis Barrett, $5,000 in attorney's fees several months ago.

In her petition Mrs. Woodward said that she withdrew $15,000 of her own money from an Atlanta bank in the early twenties and joined Woodward, then a fugitive in Oregon under the name of Thomas Cox Harrison. She stated that she turned over this money to him and that with it he purchased for her a ranch at Santa Rosa, Cal. Later, she charged, he forced a pistol into her mouth and made her deed the ranch to him, gave her $100 and a railway ticket and sent her back to Atlanta.

Thursday

The President, discussing current conflicting reports over who had final authority on production and allocations—whether it was Chairman Donald M. Nelson, of the War Production Board, or the Army and Navy—told a press conference they would have to work it out together.

As an example, he said the types of war planes had changed greatly since last January, each one weighing a great deal more than its type a year ago, and each having more wingspread, more horsepower and each requiring more man hours to make.

Workmanship Stressed. He added the government was going to spend more on the workmanship phase in 1943 than a year ago. He said this would be constantly stepped up to get much more out of each plane.

In other words, he said we are raising our sights on workmanship but not on the total number of planes. One of the problems, he continued, was to determine whether sufficient men would be available to man planes as they are completed.

This is a chief of staff problem, he said, and all such things had to be worked out between the staff and production people. He said those who have been saying there would be a single man control over all these factors were engaging in doodle drawing.

Co-ordinated Program. Commenting on the selection of Charles E. Wilson to have charge of plane production, the President said one of Wilson's tasks would be to co-ordinate the program—that is to time production of parts to production of the skeleton plane itself. Wilson will see whether certain navigation instruments are ready for installation, he said, and if some plant is not up to schedule it would be up to Wilson to correct that.

The program is going along pretty well, the President said, with only one or two bad kinks that would have to be ironed out. At one point in his lengthy discussion, the President said that all the officials concerned with these problems were supposed to agree. He added that if they failed to agree he would put them in a room and tell them to do so.

Canada Plants Of Ford Halted By Walkout

CIO Workers Strike in Dispute Over Woman Labor.

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 24.—(AP)—A strike halted production tonight at the plants of the Ford Motor Company of Canada here which have been engaged in war work, in a dispute between the management and the United Automobile Workers Union (CIO) over the employment of women and whether they should be paid at the same rates as men for comparable work.

The number of workers affected was variously estimated by the company and union sources as from 7,000 to 14,000, with the union claiming that another 2,000 had joined earlier strikers on reporting for the night shift. There were no reports of disturbance.

Representatives of the company and the union conferred for more than an hour this afternoon in the office of Mayor Arthur Reaume, but the mayor explained that efforts to get the two parties into a formal conference were unsuccessful. The mayor said he hoped for another conference tonight in which federal or provincial Labor Department authorities would participate.

George Burt, regional director of the UAW, declined comment. "It is not a union-ordered strike. But now that it has happened we are going to take the necessary steps to get the situation under control. The contract (between the union and the company) says that women shall not be employed in factory work until a conference has been held between the company and the union. Such a conference has not been held."

In a formal statement, the union said the walkout was caused by the recent action of the company in employing women at less pay for jobs formerly done by men.

Board Meets To Discuss Equipment Bids

Commissioners Weigh Problem of Bidding on Road Machines.

The Fulton county commissioners held a meeting yesterday to determine whether or not its road building equipment should go to one war contractor or several.

Acting on a request of the WPB, the commission had previously agreed to sell its equipment to the McDougall Construction Company. The E. A. Hudson Sons Company, another Atlanta firm, with a contract to build a road from the bomber plant to tie up with the county network near Bolton, then informed the commission that other Atlanta firms should be allowed to bid for the machinery.

Robert McDougall, representing the McDougall Company, told the board that he was willing for the Hudson Company to have part of the equipment. The board then instructed a committee, appointed at the last meeting to conclude the sale to the two firms, with the WPB acting as arbitrator in fixing prices for the machines.

The board then granted pay increases to two public works employees, Charles Boynton and Johnny Vickers. Boynton was raised from $175 per month to $200 and Vickers from $160 to $185.

War Personnel Can't Quit City For Christmas

Holiday Will Last Only One Day for Government Employees.

It will be Christmas in Atlanta for most workers in the national war agencies, the Office of War Information announced yesterday. And since nearly all the salaried men employed here are in regional offices which have drawn a large part of their personnel from other southern states which they serve, it will be the first Atlanta Christmas for many of them.

War agency employees will be refused leave between December 15 and January 10 if they plan to use public conveyances to leave the city, OWI said. Christmas will be a one-day holiday.

The war agencies include the War Production Board, the Office of Price Administration, War Manpower Commission, Office of Defense Transportation, War Labor Board, Office of Emergency Management, Office of Civilian Defense and the Office of War Information.

Soviets Decorate Russian Arctic Flyer

MOSCOW, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The order of the patriotic war has been conferred on Major General Mikhail Gromov, veteran Russian Arctic flyer who led a Soviet 6,282-mile flight over the north pole from Russia to the United States, it was announced today. The decoration which earned the new distinction was not mentioned. Gromov was made a hero of the Soviet Union for the successful flight which ended at San Jacinto, Calif., July 14, 1937. The rank of major general was given seven Soviet commanders in a decree of the council of people's commissars signed by Stalin.

Hitler's Railroad Crisis

Reader's Digest reports neglect of railroads may be vital factor in breakdown of German war machine

"The German economic high command has recently made an unprecedented decision—allocation of raw materials, factory space, and manpower for the repair and construction of locomotives is to have priority rating as high as tanks, airplanes and U-boats."

From "Hitler's Vulnerable Spot—Railroads," in November Reader's Digest, cabled from London by Allan A. Michie.

Hitler gambled on superhighways and a motorized Germany to provide most of the mass land transportation, military and civilian, necessary to fight this war.

Those superhighways are now largely deserted because his far-flung army swallows all rubber, oil and gasoline.

He starved Germany's railroads. He banked on a short blitzkrieg war and stolen equipment to keep them running. He guessed wrong on that one, too.

"The (German) railroads," says Reader's Digest, "are forced to struggle with the Nation's entire traffic, which increased 63% in 1940, 76% in 1941, and is now even higher."

"Transportation men in Sweden... are astonished at the dilapidated condition of cars arriving by train ferry from Denmark..."

"Neutral estimates agree that... one-third of Germany's locomotives are laid up for repairs."

"The German Reich Minister of Economics recently admitted that transport had become the central problem of the whole German war effort."

Now Let's Look At Our Own Railroad Picture

Pearl Harbor found America's railroads, in spite of lean years, ready to go at the drop of the hat.

They had worked out a plan of unified war operation. They had the men, the know-how, and the equipment to put that plan into instant effect.

For a full year of war—with the cooperation of government agencies and civilian shippers and travelers—our railroads have handled successfully the greatest traffic load in all history.

So far, so good.

But What of the Future?

Such a record has its price.

That price is immense strain on all physical plant, especially in the ceaseless pounding of trackage, cars and locomotives.

We, too, shall face a transport crisis—unless materials are available for repairs, maintenance and replacements to match this growing wear and tear.

Supreme Test Still to Come

No man knows what our traffic peak will be, or when it will come.

We do know the load increases daily.

We do know there is a limit to the performance that can be squeezed out of existing equipment.

Keep 'Em Rollin'—or Else

No nation that does not possess efficient mass transportation can hope to win a modern war. In America that mass transportation job is squarely up to her railroads. If they fail, we lose.

To meet this tremendous responsibility, we ask for every possible consideration in the allocation of materials for vitally essential repairs, maintenance and new equipment.

S. tanks against an overwhelmingly superior French force and knocking out every one of the 18 opposing machines, it may now be disclosed.

Farm Machine Repair Course Offered in State

Special Classes To Be Formed Throughout Georgia.

Farmers who want to utilize the wintry days just ahead for learning how to repair their farm machinery for the spring planting season may take advantage of special classes offered by the local schools through their vocational farm shops.

T. G. Walters, state director of vocational agriculture, announced this type of instruction is available under the Rural War Production training program, financed by a federal appropriation.

"Since it will be virtually impossible for our farmers to purchase new farm machinery, it is important that we keep the equipment we already have in the best possible condition," Walters said. "The special rural classes are set up with this in mind."

Prime Minister Claims National Control Needed

CANBERRA, Australia, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Prime Minister John Curtin declared today that national control would be necessary to provide for post-war employment on vast production projects and plans for dominion development.

"The federal powers are sufficient for the war but not for peace," Curtin said in an address inaugurating a constitutional convention.

"The commonwealth wants to develop air transport and industrial enterprises and improve health and housing."

The first full story of this encounter, led by Colonel Harry Semmes, former Washington, D. C., attorney, came today from Captain A. T. Netterblad, aide to Brigadier General Lucian K. Truscott, commanding general in charge of the attack here.

The American position was imperiled on the evening of November 8 when the 18 French tanks and a regiment of infantry were approaching from Rabat, 25 miles away. They were detected by Navy air scouts. The chief American striking forces were tied up in a bitter battle for the Kasba, ancient stronghold overlooking the sea. Only two American tanks, one 37-millimeter gun and one anti-tank gun were protecting the right flank.

"The French knocked out our anti-tank gun and its crew and began chewing up our infantry, but didn't advance further that night," said Netterblad.

"Despite the surf which delayed landing of our heavy armored equipment Colonel Semmes, commander of the third armored landing team, managed to get two more tanks ashore overnight and attacked with four tanks, although later reinforced by two more landed during the action.

"The French tank column was smashed."

"Colonel Semmes' own tank was hit eight times and he knocked out four enemy tanks himself. The French used 10-ton, 1939 Renault tanks. Ours were new light tanks. We didn't lose a single tank to enemy action."

"If they had gotten through we probably would have been driven back into the sea."

After the battle General Truscott met the colonel and told him: "Semmes you've had quite an action here."

"Well, general," he came back, "we just kept pecking away at 'em."

Alec Templeton, Blind Pianist Will Give Concert Here Tonight

Alec Templeton, the brilliant blind Welsh pianist of radio and concert fame, will be presented in concert at 8:30 o'clock tonight at the municipal auditorium under the auspices of the Wake Island Division of the Marine Corps League.

The famous musical satirist whose humorous antics on the piano and vocal mimicry of certain singing stars, had a capacity audience at the municipal auditorium literally howling with laughter last season, returns to give a full concert. Last year his fans only had a sample when he played a few numbers as guest soloist with the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra, Eugene Goossens conducting.

His programs will include a serious group or so at the beginning. But the latter half of his show will be given over to his now famous take-offs on the masters.

Tickets are on sale at Rich's and Davison-Paxon's. They may be obtained also at the box office tonight at the municipal auditorium. Blind persons will be admitted free.

Supreme Court Pigeon-Holes Aluminum Suit

4 Justices Disqualified; Required Quorum Unavailable.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The anti-trust suit brought by the Justice Department against the Aluminum Company of America has been pigeon-holed by the supreme court because four justices have disqualified themselves from acting on the controversy and hence the required quorum of six justices is not available.

This highly unusual situation was made known today in letters to the Justice Department and the aluminum company saying the court was unable to act because Chief Justice Stone and Associate Justices Reed, Murphy and Jackson considered themselves ineligible.

Since the case was not dismissed court attaches said it would remain on the docket pending further action. There is no limit, it was said, on the length of time it can stay before the tribunal.

Meanwhile, a lower court decision in favor of the aluminum company will remain in effect. This was delivered by the federal district court at New York after a 26-month trial, the longest in history.

The district court held, in an opinion that required ten days to deliver, that the Justice Department had not proved its charges that the company had violated the Sherman act by monopolizing the production and sale of aluminum.

Informed attorneys expressed the opinion that the only way to obtain early action, unless one of the present disqualified justices should agree to participate, would be to have congress pass special legislation changing the present legal quorum of six justices, or to permit retired supreme court justices to act.

Why the four jurists disqualified themselves was not announced. The aluminum company told the supreme court in a brief that Justices Murphy and Jackson had been attorneys general and Justice Reed had been solicitor general while the case was before the Justice Department. It also was pointed out that Chief Justice Stone had declared himself ineligible, for an unannounced reason, to participate in an earlier case involving the aluminum company.

Justices frequently decline to act on cases because of a previous connection with one of the litigants, as attorney or otherwise, or because a relative has an interest in the outcome of the litigation, or for other reasons.

Navy Yard Needs Skilled Workers

Many types of skilled workers are urgently needed at the Charleston Navy Yard, the Civil Service Commission's regional office here announced yesterday.

Positions include anglesmiths, boilermakers, electricians, holders on, machinists, plumbers, sheet metal workers, and helper positions for boiler makers, electricians and shipfitters.

Qualifications range from three months' experience for holder-on jobs, to six months' experience for helpers and two years for skilled tradesmen. Men who are not expecting to be drafted soon, or who have the necessary training, can get full information at the Atlanta Civil Service Commission office, Room 409, New Post Office building.

Japanese Temple Bells To Be Melted for Arms

BERN, Switzerland, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Temple bells in Japan will be melted down for armaments, the German newspaper Deutsche Allgemeine reported, quoting a Tokyo dispatch.

Japan, like Italy, is short of metals, and took her cue from the Italians, who long ago started seizing church bells. The Fascist action was deplored recently by Italian parish priests, who said they did not want to see "these symbols of peace used to make instruments of war and death."

State-Paid Flower Bill Revealed At Rivers Trial

The state of Georgia paid a bill for flowers purchased as a floral offering by former Governor and Mrs. E. D. Rivers in 1936, before Rivers became Governor, according to State Auditor B. E. Thrasher Jr., testifying yesterday at the trial of the former executive in Fulton superior court.

The bill was $10.90 payable to the Central Garden Florists of Augusta and the flowers were for Mrs. Isaac Peebles.

Thrasher stated that Rivers in 1936 was speaker of the house and that it was customary for the state to pay such bills. He said that at that time he was assistant auditor. The trial of Rivers got underway as Judge Virlyn B. Moore denied a motion for continuance on the ground that many defense witnesses were inaccessible at distant Army and Navy posts. A jury was selected without much trouble and then Special Prosecutor James A. Branch outlined the state's case charging the former governor with embezzlement of approximately $66,000 in state funds. Branch told the jury that the state would show that Rivers illegally used state funds for gas-line used by friends and members of his family, for flowers, for maintenance of the executive mansion and for private telephones. "The state," said Branch, "unlawfully paid $150 per week to Mrs. Rivers for upkeep of the governor's mansion."

He said that the governor's salary is $7,500 and that no law authorizes any such payments. He admitted that the auditor has disapproved some items of expenditure and that the governor had repaid them.

For the defense, John Dennis said that he could only speak in generalities since he had not known what specific charges would be brought against his client. He declared that the $150 weekly paid for upkeep of the mansion was mean between the highest and the lowest sums paid to previous governors for the same purpose. He outlined the multitudinous duties of the governor when dozens or more new activities were undertaken by the executive office, such as organization of the state patrol, the WPA, Social Security, parks, soil conservation, homestead exemption, free school books and other programs.

These required Rivers, he said, to make numerous trips all over the state. Since the car he was entitled to use often broke down he often used cars of other members of his family or friends for public trips. Dennis said that the state might well have paid for gasoline used by these cars. He also said that, to get away from crowds at the executive office, the Governor had frequently conducted public business from a hotel room, donated to him, and that the state had doubtless paid for phone calls from this room.

12 Men Selected. Dennis further declared that all moneys disbursed by the Governor's office were in regular fashion and that in all $775,000 was paid to Rivers' two executive secretaries, Marvin Griffin and Downing Musgrove, for the conduct of official business. It would have been impossible for the Governor, he said, to have examined every item disbursed.

The 12 men selected to try Rivers are Carl L. Welch, of Hapeville, personnel manager of National Biscuit Company; Harold L.

Kennedy, 1160 East Rock Springs road, traffic department of telephone company; G. S. Stewart, 3069 Piedmont road, salesman, John Smith Company, and Joseph Avans, Route 2, College Park, Railway Express Company.

First Witness.

The jury, when out of the courtroom, will be locked up. Judge Moore ordered. He said that the case would go on Thanksgiving, Saturdays and nights if necessary to reach a speedy conclusion. The jury spent last night at the Piedmont hotel.

The first witness for the state was Horace A. Hixon, assistant state treasurer. In response to questions by Branch he gave the amounts paid to Rivers' two executive secretaries for operation of the executive office from 1937 to 1941.

This office is allowed under the law, he said, an operating fund of $100,000 and an additional $100,000 fund for contingencies. He said that for the fiscal year 1937-1938 he paid to the governor's office $144,774.65 out of the operations fund, which was replenished out of the contingency fund. He gave the amounts of all sums paid to the executive office out of the two $100,000 funds appropriated for each fiscal period of the Rivers administration.

On cross-examination by Dennis he said that he also paid other large sums into the governor's office, such as those for distribution of the Georgia code among Georgia justices of the peace and the $33,000 appropriated for renovation of the state capital.

Answer to Question. The next witness was Hamilton Stephens, son of Assistant Solicitor General Ed H. Stephens, who said that he had helped the prosecution prepare its case against Rivers. He identified a number of $150 checks paid to Mrs. Rivers.

In answer to a question by Dennis he said that he had been paid with checks signed by Linton Johnson, assistant attorney general in the Talmadge administration.

State Auditor Thrasher then took the stand. He identified $4,160 in checks paid by the state in bi-monthly sums of $50 to Gladstone Williams. He said that this money was paid for information regarding federal funds sent from Washington and that at the time he approved the payments he did not know that Williams was a newspaper man.

In denying the motion for continuance earlier, Judge Moore said that he could not tell if any of the absent witnesses were material, but that if it developed that they were he would entertain a motion for a mistrial.

Former Dean Takes Oath as SPARS Head

Dorothy Stratton To Lead Women's Unit of Coast Guard.

By RUTH COWAN.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Lieutenant Commander Dorothy C. Stratton, a dean of women with a merry, somewhat impish grin that crinkles up around her blue eyes, stopped smiling this afternoon for a very solemn event—her oath of office as head of the Coast Guard's newly organized SPARS, another feminine unit in uniform.

It was a gold braid occasion with high-ranking Coast Guard officers watching as Rear Admiral L. T. Chalker, assistant commander, administered the oath to the slim, erect 43-year-old woman who is on leave as dean of women at Purdue University in Lafayette, Indiana.

Standing by, too, was Lieutenant Commander Mildred McAfee, director of the SPARS' older sister organization, the WAVES. Until she was sworn in, Lieutenant Commander Stratton was a lieutenant in the WAVES.

Admiral Chalker said he knew he was expressing the feelings of all the Coast Guard in welcoming Lieutenant Commander Stratton, who gave the name SPARS—derived from the Coast Guard's motto: "Semper Paratus, Always Ready"—to the new outfit.

The formalities completed, Admiral Chalker congratulated the now beaming Lieutenant Commander Stratton. The rest of the gold braid did the same. Watching, Lieutenant Commander McAfee laughed: "I feel like the mother of the bride."

French Take Crepe From Flag Covered Since Fall of Country

MARRAKECH, French Morocco, Nov. 24.—(AP)—A French flag draped with crepe caught the eye of a United States major general while visiting General Martin, commander of the French garrison here.

Martin explained that the flag had remained draped since the fall of France in June, 1940. He asked the American to remove the crepe and then gave him half to keep as a souvenir.

McAfee and Lieutenant Commander Stratton are natives of Missouri, the latter having been born in Brookfield, the daughter of a Baptist minister. She attended high school in Lamar, Mo., and Blue Rapids, Kan. Her colleges include Ottawa University, Ottawa, Kan., the University of Chicago and Columbia University.

She started her teaching career as vice principal at the San Bernardino (Cal.) Senior High school, and in 1933 was made dean of women and professor of psychology at Purdue. A member of the first class of WAVES trained at Smith College, she has been since assistant to the commanding officer of the radio school for enlisted WAVES personnel at the University of Wisconsin.

Coast Guard To Enroll 4,000 Women 'SPARS'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The Navy announced today that the Coast Guard would proceed at once to enroll approximately 4,000 women in its reserve organization, the "SPARS."

The official designation of "SPARS" was given to the nation's third women's military organization when President Roosevelt signed the enacting bill November 23. The other two are the "WAACS" and the "WAVES," the female auxiliaries of the Army and Navy, respectively.

U. S. Army To Be Best-Read Force in World

Publishers and the reading public are combining forces to make this man's army the best-read army in the world, according to Fourth Service Command Librarian Mary Frances Slinger.

Due to the foresight of publishers, it is very simple for a reader nowadays to pass his book on to a soldier or a sailor or a Marine.

"The publishers have distributed millions of labels which may be pasted upon the books which you have read and wish to send on to soldiers," Miss Slinger explained.

All you have to do is remove the label, stick it on the book, tie a string around the book, lick your stamp and send the volume whizzing on a patriotic mission. The stamps usually come to three cents and can be pasted on the label.

Miss Slinger said some 12,000 books already have been received and distributed to recently activated stations. Thousands of pocket editions are going to ports of embarkation and troops on maneuvers.

Rockdale Now Is Dry County

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
CONYERS, Ga., No. 24.—Rockdale county today swung into the dry column, voting 508 to 191 to repeal the legal sale of liquors in the county.

Rockdale county was among the first of Georgia counties voting to legalize the sale of liquors following repeal of Georgia's bone dry laws several years ago.

As a result of today's election, several liquor stores which have operated in the county for several years, will go out of business on January 1, when their state licenses expire.

WE CAN be thankful that the Hudson, the Ohio and the Mississippi are not "rivers of blood"—like the Volga and the Don.

We can be thankful for the spirit of unity that has prevailed throughout America during the greatest crisis of our history.

We can be thankful for the privilege of paying larger and larger individual income taxes—thankful for our ability to pay them!

We can be thankful for our abundance of good food and warm clothing.

We can be thankful that justice and freedom and human rights are written indelibly into the law of our land—in our Constitution and Bill of Rights.

We can be thankful for the tolerance and freedom each of us is permitted to enjoy as citizens of this great democracy.

These are privileges which we, as Americans, must protect and respect—never abuse. For even the right to enjoy good whiskey—depends, in the long run, upon the discretion and wise conduct of the individual.

For many years the House of Seagram has consistently urged moderation in drinking. On this day, we who make fine whiskey, are pleased and gratified to know that our continued efforts to promote the wise use of liquor have been commended and supported by the trade, the public, the press, the legislators and thoughtful men and women in every walk of life.

The Army and Navy in Georgia

Doyle M. Coffee, son of the late Tipton Coffee, publisher of the West Point News, has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant commander in the Navy, his relatives here were notified yesterday.

Commander Coffee is in command of a destroyer. He is a graduate of Annapolis. His father and three brothers served in the last war and he has another brother, Charles Dana Coffee, formerly of Atlanta, with the radio section of the Army Air Corps in Chicago.

Ewell Coffee, of 196 Tenth street, brother of the commander, served as a first sergeant with the American Expeditionary Forces in France in World War I. They have a sister, Miss Leta L. Coffee, who lives at 560 Ashby street.

Scott F. Turner, Julius D. Mann.

James L. Davis, Thomas H. Carter.

Three Atlantans and Scott F. Turner, of Pelham, Ga., graduated last week from the Harlingen (Texas) Aerial Gunners School, receiving as reward for five hard weeks of training their silver gunner's wings and promotions to sergeant.

The Atlantans are Thomas H. Carter, son of Mrs. Lenora Carter, of 1302 West Peachtree, N. W.; Julius D. Mann, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Mann, of 114 Pine street, N. E.; and James L. Davis, son of Mrs. Coke Davis, of 1250 Albemarle avenue, N. E.

Sergeant Turner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Turner, of Pelham.

9 GEORGIANS PROMOTED AT KEY FIELD
Among the promotions announced last week at Key Field, Miss., were those of nine Georgians, two of them Atlantans, who received additional chevrons as higher non-commissioned officers.

The Atlantans were George Enlow, son of Mrs. Bessie Enlow, of 1036 Vance avenue, and William

V. Frith, son of Mrs. Pearl Frith, of 1095 Blue Ridge avenue, both of whom were promoted from private first class to corporal.

Other Georgians promoted were Cleave E. Ross, of Macon, to corporal; Wilmer Beasley, of Savannah, to corporal; Perry B. Davis, of Elberton, to staff sergeant; John R. Smith, of Bartow, to sergeant; George W. Little, of Hapeville, to corporal; James D. Pyron, of Griffin, to corporal; and A. G. Williamson, of Vidalia, to master sergeant.

CORPORAL PALMS TO VISIT BALBOA

Corporal Lawrence Edward Palmour, USMC, has been stationed on the Atlantic side of the Isthmus of Panama for two years and has never been over to the other side.

Corporal Palmour, the son of Mrs. Ocie Palmour, of Cleveland, Ga., was asked by the Marine Corps combat correspondent why he'd never been over to Balboa, on the Pacific side. He replied in his slow north-Georgia drawl, "Just never got around to it."

Twenty-one years old, Corporal Palmour enlisted in the Marines October 24, 1939, and received his recruit training at Parris Island, S. C. He is at present attached to the office of the Post Quartermaster, and he's thinking seriously of making that trip over to the other side "just to see what it's like."

CHARLES BAUTZ GETS PROMOTION

Charles K. Bautz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Bautz, of 809 Cumberland road, N. E., was recently promoted to the rank of major in the Army Air Forces at the Air Base in Bolling Field, Washington, D. C.

Major Bautz graduated from Georgia Tech in 1936, and before entering the service he was connected with the Federal Sales and Engineering company of Washington, D. C.

J. M. EDWARDS FINISHES OFFICERS SCHOOL

James M. Edwards, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Lane Edwards, of Macon, Ga., was recently graduated from the Adjutant General's Officer Candidate school, Fort Washington, Md., and commissioned a second lieutenant.

Lieutenant Edwards attended Commercial High school and Georgia Evening University college, and prior to his induction, was an employee of the regional office of the Home Owners Loan Corporation Personnel Department. He was stationed at Camp Wheeler, Va., before being selected for officer candidate school.

17 ATLANTANS ENTER NAVY AIR SCHOOL

Beginning three months of intensive physical training and ground school work preliminary to further training for naval aviation, 17 naval aviation cadets from Atlanta and vicinity enrolled this week in the U. S. Navy Pre-Flight School in Athens, Ga.

They are: Benjamin Verner Chaplin, son of E. B. Chaplin, of 823 St. Charles avenue; Robert Brannon Clay, son of Mrs. H. S. Miller, of 799 Elizabeth place; Wilburn Rucker Clarke Jr., son of W. R. THOMAS STRICKLAND VISITING PARENTS

Lieutenant Thomas D. Strickland Jr., now stationed at the U. S. Naval Air Station at Port Landon, Bight, Jamaica, is spending a few days' furlough with his family in Smyrna.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Strickland, of 1041 West Peachtree, Lieutenant Strickland has been in the service for only six weeks, having spent 20 months prior to his transfer in Cuba. He is a graduate of Georgia Tech, and before going on active duty three years ago, was connected with the Goodyear company.

Arthur R. Young Jr., of 732 Parkway drive, was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Tank Destroyer Command recently at Camp Hood, Texas.

William Alton Crow, of 63 Mobile avenue, has been promoted to captain in the Internal Security Division, Fourth Service Command headquarters.

Elliott Roosevelt Joins Doolittle in North Africa

UNITED STATES TWELFTH AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS, Algeria, Nov. 20.—(Delayed)—(AP) Lieutenant Colonel Elliott Roosevelt, the President's son, commanding a technical observation unit, arrived today at Major General James H. Doolittle's headquarters to join the United States Air Forces operating in North Africa.

Many Peacetime Services Cut Without Reducing 'Ceilings'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(AP) Seeking to remove "excess baggage" from wartime retailing, the Office of Price Administration today authorized the discontinuance or curtailment of many peacetime services without requiring reductions in ceiling prices.

Price Administrator Leon Henderson simultaneously issued "recommended standards of retail practice" and "recommended wartime management policies" to aid retail operations under the recently announced retailers' economy-for-victory plan.

Henderson said his action followed a demand by James F. Byrnes, director of economic stabilization, for streamlining of business and increased standardization.

The "anti-frill" retailers' economy-for-victory plan is designed to conserve materials and facilities for the war effort, to free manpower for war production and to allow retailers to operate under what Henderson called "tough" conditions in 1943.

Except as specifically provided to the contrary, Henderson authorized retailers to curtail or discontinue the following:

Deliveries of reasonably carryable packages, except such emergency purchases as prescriptions and sick room supplies.

Sales on approval.

Acceptance of articles returned by customers. (This does not extend to articles not delivered as represented or ordered.)

Gift wrapping and gift packing.

Lay-away and will-call privileges.

Free telephone calls.

Services performed without relation to a specified sale. Examples: Instruction classes, style shows, store decorations, free concerts, free refreshments and air conditioning.

The order also states specifically what the retailer cannot do without a compensating reduction in ceiling price. Included in the "cannot" list are the elimination of alteration or remodeling services; repairs, maintenance or installation services customarily sold with an article by way of guarantee. Similarly, it provides that if delivery of noncarryable packages is eliminated, the ceiling price must be reduced by the amount of net cost to the consumer of having delivery made by the most usual and reasonable method of transportation. A retailer who charged extra for delivery may drop delivery, if he drops the charge.

The recommended standards of retail practice generally suggest the elimination of the services the retailers are authorized to discontinue or curtail.

Among recommendations for wartime management policies were the following:

Use self-service if feasible.

Standardize and urge manufacturers to standardize sizes.

Extend the use of informative labeling which gives full information of quality, care, and use of goods.

Simplify your line, with unnecessary sizes and varieties dropped.

Pool deliveries.

Consolidate buying facilities and adopt greater use of group buying.

Promote staggered payrolls for local factories as a means of leveling off weekly sales.

Adjust store hours to war labor conditions.

Minimize full-time replacement of war loss employees by consolidating and rescheduling work wherever possible, and reduce the need of part-time employees by adopting a promotional policy that will reduce weekend sales peaks.

Do no unnecessary remodeling, repairing, or elaborate maintenance work.

'Bundles for America' Head Pays Mrs. Patterson Tribute

WHEN MRS. NATALIE WALES LATHAM, of New York, resigned as president of Bundles for America last week, she paid special tribute to Mrs. Willard Patterson, capable president of the Atlanta chapter of the organization. In fact, she wrote Mrs. Patterson a personal letter expressing her appreciation, not only for all the splendid work she has done for Bundles for America, but also for the sincere and delightful friendship that grew out of her contact with the Atlanta.

In case you are not familiar with what Mrs. Patterson and her co-workers have been doing and will continue to do for men in the service, here are a few of their accomplishments, just to give you an idea. They have established a day room for each of the 19 companies at Fort McPherson, and for each of the four companies at the Army Air Base. And to men who live in barracks, a day room is indeed a God-send, for it serves as the only living room the enlisted men have access to.

Another highly appreciated service is the collecting and distributing of 2,000 magazines weekly, with a projected goal of at least 3,000. You see, every time a troop train rolls out of Atlanta, Bundles for America goes to it that each man on the train is presented at least one magazine to help him while away the hours on board.

In addition, the organization has supplied a great deal of recreational material for men in the service, and has sent three shipments of knitted garments to the Army and Navy, under the requisition of the commanding officer at Fort Knox, Ky. Another splendid and greatly needed service is the making of garments in the salvage work rooms for the families of men in the service. Already the chapter has completed more than 1,000 garments, half of which were made from new material contributed by local manufacturers, and clothing that was cleaned and reconditioned.

Bundles for America maintains headquarters, as you know, at 37 Peachtree Arcade. Mrs. Robert B. Strickland serves as vice president, and the chapter sponsors include Major General William Bryden, of the Fourth Service Command; Brigadier General William Sheep, of Lawson General Hospital; Colonel Clifford C. Early, of Fort McPherson; Colonel R. N. Atwell, of the Atlanta Ordnance Motor Base, and Major Francis D. Shoemaker, executive officer of the Atlanta Army Air Base. Among the civilian sponsors are Mrs. James E. Hickey, Mr. and Mrs. John Neely, Mr. and Mrs. John K. Ottley, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Harrington, Captain and Mrs. Harold T. Patterson, and Mrs. Ernest C. Taylor.

The soldiers at Fort McPherson have received such untold pleasure and benefit from Bundles for America that they named Mrs. Patterson "God-mother of the Garrison" on last Mother's Day.

TWO distinguished visitors from Washington shared honors on Sunday when Colonel and Mrs. Roland Gaugler were hosts at a mid-day dinner party at their home on Peachtree road. They were Captain Calton Elroy Allfaro, ambassador from Ecuador, and Charles H. Sprukes, of the State Department. The duo had come to Atlanta in official capacity to greet President of the Rio, of Ecuador, who was en route to Washington. Colonel Gaugler and Captain Allfaro were accompanied by West Point Military Academy, and Sunday's party assumed the aspects of a reunion for the two lifelong friends.

Colonel and Mrs. Gaugler invited a few close friends to meet the two visitors and were assisted in receiving by their mother, Mrs. Robert Blakeman; Lieutenant and Mrs. Arthur Sobey, Lee Gaugler, and Mrs. Stuart Brown. Mrs. H. H. Hill presided at the coffee urn on the beautifully appointed table.

If you have either children's or men's clothing that members of your family have outgrown, take them to the Service Group and Omnibus at 289 Peachtree street. Mrs. Charles Seiple, executive secretary, is at the shop from 10 to 4 o'clock each day to receive either gifts or consignment articles. Your contributions to the Service Group are the means of raising funds for charity hospital beds and rehabilitating needy families.

BELIEVE IT or not, it actually happened right here in Atlanta. The reference is to the amusing "war story" now going the rounds. As you know, the government is recruiting workers to serve in Pearl Harbor. And it seems that a venerable dandy, who could neither read nor write and evidently a trifle hard of hearing, visited a local employment bureau. In humble and pleading tones he begged to be included in the next shipment of worthy fellows being sent to HALLE-LEULAH!

"BLOOD ON HER SHOE." Medora Field's popular mystery novel which recently was sold to the movies, has won a new honor. It is included in the current Hospital Book Guide, compiled quarterly by the American Library Association, for the benefit of those faced with the problem of choosing books for sick people. Naturally, in making such selections, psychology is all important. Anything depressing or upsetting is immediately ruled out. Only books which furnish wholesome relaxation, entertainment and inspiration are eligible. Here is the description of "Blood on Her Shoe," as list-

Evening College To Give Banquet

Students and alumni of the Georgia Evening College will hold their ninth annual homecoming banquet on Thanksgiving eve, at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

This is the most important function on the university calendar and was originated in 1933 for the purpose of fostering interest in the Evening College and to reunite the alumni.

The Evening College has a large enrollment of men in armed services, many of whom will attend the banquet. Another feature of the evening will be a presentation of songs by the widely known Evening College Glee Club under the direction of John Hoffman; several selections from the operetta, "New Moon," will be performed by this group of singers.

Dr. R. C. S. Young, former Evening College dean of men and now employed by Callaway Mills as personnel director, will speak and H. E. Dennison will be toastmaster. A dance with the Emory Aces playing will follow.

Powell-Wilson Rites Revealed

VILLA RICA, Ga., Nov. 23.—Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Powell, of Villa Rica, of the marriage of their only daughter, Miss Miriam Powell, to James Harris Wilson, of Villa Rica and Atlanta. The wedding was quietly solemnized November 14 at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of the immediate families. The Rev. R. C. Owen, pastor of the Methodist church, officiated.

The bride was becomingly gowned in an ensemble of aqua, with which she wore a rose hat. She carried a lace handkerchief which belonged to the groom's grandmother, the late Mrs. E. F. Hixon. Her shoulder spray was a golden-throated lavender orchid. The bride is a graduate of Villa Rica High school and attended G. S. C. W. at Milledgeville. She graduated from Daugherty's School of Commerce and now holds a secretarial position with the Royal Typewriter Company in Atlanta.

Mr. Wilson is the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wilson. He attended Oglethorpe University, Atlanta, where he was a member of the Alpha Lambda Tau fraternity. He is now employed with the Southern Railway Company, Atlanta.

The couple left for a short wedding trip.

In the October number of Hospital Book Guide, now on file at the Carnegie Library in Atlanta.

A good lusty mystery with two murders and two attempts and a good clean dagger as the weapon. Mistaken identity of twin sisters, a package of tubes of radium stolen from the hospital, and various ghosts make it a very satisfactory tale with no passages to disturb patients.

Palms, southern smilax and white chrysanthemums adorned the church, and white wrought iron candelabra held white tapers. The couple knelt on a white satin prieu dieu to speak their marriage vows. Family pews were designated by clusters of white chrysanthemums.

Groomsmen were Lieutenant R. S. Schiedker, Lieutenant R. G. Crawley, Ensign William Spencer, Ensign Wallace Schulz and Commander H. P. Benton.

Harry S. Boling served as best man for his son.

Miss Marianne Hicks, the maid-of-honor, was gowned in chartrreuse faille taffeta, fashioned with a slight train, and she carried a bouquet of roses, shading from deep cream to yellow and bronze. The groom's sister, Patricia Boling, was junior bridesmaid, wearing a model of lemon faille taffeta and carrying a nosegay of bronze and yellow roses.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. George E. Stone Jr., who wore green; Mrs. Robert E. McAllister, Mrs. Sue Pharr and Miss Lorraine Walsh, all of whom wore bronze faille taffeta, and Miss Marie Powell, whose dress was of gold. The gowns were fashioned like that worn by the maid-of-honor, and the attendants carried bronze and yellow roses.

Constitution Staff Photo—Kay Cain. Mrs. James D. Campbell, entertainment chairman for the Atlanta Junior League "Bonds for Victory Ball," is seen receiving a telegram from Frankie Masters to the effect that he sent his famous orchestra to play on December 7 to play for the ball to be held that evening at the auditorium. Floyd Coggins is the Western Union messenger who delivered the exciting news.

Frankie Masters Will Play For 'Bonds For Victory Ball'

Frankie Masters and his patently famous dance orchestra will arrive in Atlanta on December 7 to play for the Atlanta Junior League "Bonds for Victory Ball" that evening, according to Mrs. James D. Campbell, entertainment chairman for the ball. Coming here from an engagement playing for the soldiers at a near-by military camp, he will stop in Atlanta on an extensive tour around the country.

Radio listeners will identify Frankie Masters' orchestra as one of the Coca-Cola spotlight bands, which are selected from an exclusive list of the nation's most popular and best known swing bands. Coming with him are vocalists and special feature acts which will be a part of the many entertainment attractions at the "Bonds for Victory Ball."

Mrs. Campbell also announces that the music of Frankie Masters will furnish the inspiration for a jitterbug contest open to all those present that night. Girls and boys of the high school and college set have already planned to be on hand to take part in this exciting competition. The contest will be in charge of Mrs. William Woods.

Tickets for the "Bonds for Victory Ball" are on sale now at the box office at 66 Broad street which is open daily from 10 until 4 o'clock under the direction of Mrs. Martin Kilpatrick and Mrs. Robert Pegram Jr. Purchasers of $1,000 and $1,500 bonds may receive box seats by calling Mrs. James D. Robinson Jr., Mrs. V. W. McKinney, general chairman of the ball, urges every one to buy their bonds and tickets as soon as possible since a great many box and dress circle seats have already been sold.

Bridal Couple Feted At Open House.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Elliott held open house at their home on Candler road recently, honoring Mr. and Mrs. James Perkins, whose marriage was a recent event. Mrs. Perkins was, before her marriage, Miss Louise James. Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. R. B. James, the bride's mother, Mrs. C. J. Perkins, mother of the groom, and Miss Artyce Nunn, of Rutledge.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a reception at the Woman's Club. Mrs. Frank Johnson, mother of the bride, received guests wearing a black net gown topped with a white faille bodice trimmed with sequins. Her flowers were orchids. Mrs. Harry Boling, of Atlanta, mother of the groom, wore a blue crepe designed with a matching lace bodice, and accented by a shoulder cluster of orchids.

Miss Rosemary Pritchard read the bride's book, and Miss Lydia Lyon and Mrs. Tallulah Dunlap presided at the punch bowl.

The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered cake topped with pink and white flowers and silver candelabra garlanded with stephanotis.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Boling left for a wedding trip down the Gulf coast and to New Orleans Mrs. Boling wore for traveling a tailored suit of pink wool with brown accessories and a brown off-the-face hat brimmed with pink feathers. Orchids formed her shoulder bouquet. Upon their return they will reside temporarily in Mobile.

Out-of-town guests present were Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Thompson, of Los Angeles, Cal.; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Zahn, Mrs. Theresa Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Liles, Dr. and Mrs. L. M. White, Mrs. Vera Swartz, Mrs. Cary Bone, Austin Dillbeck and Tom Swift, of Atlanta, Ga.

Box Office Opened For 'Victory Ball.'

The "Bonds for Victory Ball" box office has been opened at 66 Broad street and will remain open each day from 10 to 4 o'clock. Mrs. James D. Robinson Jr., chairman of boxes, Mrs. Martin Kilpatrick and Mrs. Robert Pegram Jr., chairmen of tickets, will be on duty to sell bonds for admission to the mammoth ball to be held at the city auditorium on December 7 under the sponsorship of the Atlanta Junior League. Bonds of all denominations are on sale as admission tickets to the ball.

Mrs. Brown Gives Rules For Poetry

Mrs. Alex B. Brown, poetry chairman, fifth district, Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, gives the following rules to govern the "Poetry-Reading Scrapbook Contest" which she is conducting on the general theme, "Favorite Poems of World War II."

Every federated club in the fifth district is eligible to submit a scrapbook in the contest. Each member of a club is to read and clip poems about the war appearing in newspapers, magazines and books in February she selects her favorite poem that has appeared since Pearl Harbor and submits it to the scrapbook chairman.

The scrapbook should be compiled by the club's poetry chairman, or an appointed chairman of scrapbook. Clippings taken from newspapers, magazines, books, etc., must carry date and name of periodical. If poem is taken from a book, give title of book, author and publisher. Expensive scrapbooks are not necessary. Inscribe on first page the name of club, number of members in club, number participating and name and address of scrapbook chairman.

Contest will be judged as follows: 1. Largest percentage of members submitting poems. No poem may appear more than once in each book. On percentage basis a small club has equal opportunity with a large one. 2. Neatness. 3. Accuracy as to title of source and date. 4. Quality of verse included. Prize of ten dollars in War Stamps will be awarded for book judged best; five dollars in War Stamps to the second best; three dollars in War Stamps to third best. Awards will be made to clubs whose scrapbooks are selected by three judges who will include poets and clubwomen not members of the fifth district.

Scrapbooks must be submitted to the poetry chairman by March 1, 1943. Awards will be made at the fifth district meeting in March. Encourage your members to read and clip every poem regarding war effort and submit favorites for your scrapbook.

Members of the Epsilon Nu chapter of the Tau Phi Lambda sorority meet at Blick's bowling alley this evening at 6 o'clock for a bowling party with members of Phi Lambda sorority. Members and pledges of the Epsilon Nu chapters are invited to attend.

Miss Kelley Weds Mr. Aderhold.

Of interest is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Mildred Hughes Kelley, daughter of Mr. Emmie L. Kelley and the late Major James E. Kelley, to George U. Aderhold, of Atlanta and Marianna, Fla.

The ceremony was performed on November 7 in Macon by the Rev. George Stoves. After the ceremony the couple left for a wedding trip, after which they will reside in Marianna, Fla.

MISS CATHERINE BRAHAN JOHNSON.

Miss Johnson, Mr. Anderson To Be Married November 26

Of interest to a host of friends is the announcement made by Mrs. Henry Rogers Johnson, of the engagement of her daughter, Miss Catherine Brahan Johnson, to Wayne Lawrence Anderson, of Washington, D. C.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mrs. Johnson and the late Henry Rogers Johnson, of Americus. Her grandparents were Matilda Josephine Black and Henry Rogers Johnson, of Americus, and Martha Jefferson and Haywood Brahan, of Seguin and San Antonio, Tex. Her sisters are Mrs. Edmund Pratt, of Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. Henry Sparrow, of Hawkinsville, and Miss Anne Johnson of this city.

Mr. Anderson is the only son of Lawrence Anderson, of Jamestown, N. Y., who is the son of Mrs. Charles Anderson, of Jamestown. The marriage of the popular couple will be solemnized by the Rev. James B. Lawrence, of Americus, on November 25, at St. Luke's Episcopal church, at 6 o'clock.

Miss Anthony Weds Mr. Martin.

Miss Jacqueline Nell Anthony and Robert Arno Martin were married Saturday evening at the home of the bride on Ponce de Leon avenue. Dr. Louie D. Newton, pastor of the Druid Hills Baptist church, officiated at 7:30 o'clock in the presence of friends and relatives. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Nell Walker Anthony, of Jacksonville, Fla., and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Kennedy, of Milton, Mass.

A musical program was presented by Phillip Hess. The home was beautifully decorated with a variety of cut flowers and chrysanthemums.

Miss Aldyne Green Johnson, as the maid of honor, was gowned in powder blue crepe and her flowers were gardenias. Corporal Peter Mickal was the best man.

The bride was becomingly gowned in her traveling ensemble, an aqua blue tweed suit worn with an aqua blouse and brown accessories. Her flowers were orchids.

After the ceremony a reception was given. Flowers in fall shades beautified the home, and the table in the dining room was centered with a tiered cake decorated in green and white and placed on a mound of roses. Misses Aldyne Johnson and Doris Talent assisted in entertaining.

Mrs. Anthony, the bride's mother, was gowned in brown crepe, trimmed in green and brown sequins and worn with brown accessories and talismen roses. Mrs. Martin, the groom's mother, wore green made with a beaded yoke and matching accessories. Her flowers were talismen roses.

The bridal couple left for a wedding trip to Florida and upon their return they will reside at 1221 North Highland avenue. Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Martin, the groom's parents; Miss Natalie Martin, sister of the groom, from Milton, Mass.; Mrs. Nell Anthony, the bride's mother, and Mrs. H. H. Stiles, of Jacksonville, Fla.

The bride resides here at 1492 Ponce de Leon avenue. She is a graduate of St. Petersburg, Fla. High school and also attended the St. Petersburg Junior College. She was graduated from Shenandoah College in Dayton, Va.

The groom is a graduate of Milton High school, Milton, Mass., and is a graduate of Middleburg College in Middleburg, Ohio. He is a member of the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity and is now associated as an underwriter with the Liberty Mutual Insurance Company.

Kenny Treatment For Polio Victims

By Ida Jean Kain

I have just seen a demonstration of the miracle that is known as "the Kenny method." It is this treatment which will give children a chance to escape the crippling effects of infantile paralysis and I want to tell you about it.

As you probably know, the method was originated by Elizabeth Kenny, the courageous Australian nurse. She is now in Minneapolis training doctors, nurses and physiotherapists from every part of our country.

In the new treatment, the plaster cast is a thing of the past. The patient has a special bed, with boards lengthwise under the mattress and another board at the foot of the bed. While the pain is acute, hot applications are given every two hours and sometimes even more frequently.

The packs are made of old woolen blankets or other woolen cloth, dipped into boiling water and then put through a very tight wringer, twice. The heat tends to relax the muscles that are in spasm and to alleviate the pain.

No massage is given. But as soon as the patient is ready for it, passive exercise is begun and later active exercise. As explained by Dr. Don Gudakunst, medical director for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, which is financing Miss Kenny's work, there is no attempt to build up strength. The purpose of the exercise is to prevent loss of muscular balance and co-ordination in so far as possible. The patient does not forget how to use his muscles.

When I tell you that it takes a physiotherapist two months to learn what exercises to give and when to give them, you can understand that the treatment is not simple.

Mild stimulation of the muscles may begin as early as the second or third day. At that time the range of movement is extremely limited, but it is enough to help the patient re-establish contact with those particular muscle groups. He is expected to cooperate in these simple exercises, but to keep them relaxed. One of the first exercises consists in pressing the feet flat against the board attached to the foot of the bed. As he improves, the range of his passive exercises is increased and he progresses into mild active exercise.

Remembering how to use the muscles is the key to the patient's recovery. I had infantile paralysis when I was a little girl, but fortunately, there were five children in our family and nobody had time to do much waiting on me. I had to get up and about and keep on using my muscles. I know that it was kept me from being a cripple. But my case was not very severe. Not every child could do that.

The new treatment is so successful in preventing twisted arms and legs that doctors look on it as a miracle of the age. There are now six centers where it is being taught: Stanford University and the University of Southern California, Warm Springs, the University of Minnesota, Northwestern Medical School, the D. T. Watson School of Physiotherapy. More centers are to be established.

Important Message to Folks Who Have HEAD COLDS

If head is stuffed up, eyes watery, nose running or so clogged you can hardly breathe—just try a few drops of Vicks Vapo-Rol up each nostril. Then enjoy the grand relief it brings.

Va-tro-nol is so effective because it does three very important things: (1) shrinks swollen membranes, (2) soothes irritation, (3) helps clear cold-clogged nasal passages... and thus brings relief! If a Cold Threatens, use Va-tro-nol at first sniffle or sneeze. Helps prevent many colds from developing. Follow directions in folder.

Modern Injection Treatment for Hernia

By Dr. William Brady.

In announcing that you were discontinuing the service of recommending to inquirers physicians skilled in certain methods of treatment which you advocate, you suggested that those wishing to have tonsils extirpated by diathermy (electrocoagulation) inquire at the County Medical Society as to physicians qualified to remove tonsils by this method (writes a physician who from reports of many of his patients, enjoys great success in this modern method of dealing with infected tonsils).

It would be astonishing if one of your readers were to follow your suggestion and inquire at the County Medical Society's office (by letter or telephone) and learn of any physician or specialist who is qualified to give such treatment. Equally so if an inquirer so learned that any physician in the community is qualified to give the injection treatment for hernia, another method you have effectively advocated. I'll wager five pounds of your favorite smoking tobacco against a set of your Little Lessons in the Ways of Health that you can't name a county medical society anywhere that will officially inform an inquirer that any physician is qualified to administer such treatment.

No bet, Doctor. I can't. I'm sorry—I never thought of that when I announced that I would no longer name physicians or specialists who give ambulatory treatment, diathermy, etc.

In the same mail with your letter came one from a reader. The reader had followed my suggestion, inquiring at the office of the County Medical Society for the name and address of a doctor skilled in injection treatment of hernia. The reader was advised that "the injection treatment is still in the experimental stage and has not so far proved safe or effective." That is virtually the advice I, Dr. Brady, gave readers of this column 15 years ago or earlier. "Every young person with hernia" (said I in this column, at that time)—"and everybody is young until old age sets in—should have the radical operation for the cure of the hernia. It is safer than the hernia; it is far more economical than a lifetime truss wearing. The operation is not a sure cure, but if the healing process is normal and there is no infection or other complication, a cure is assured. No other treatment offers even a fighting chance of curing a rupture." Pretty good for that era, what?

Your Horoscope for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Astrologist

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 21-April 19—(ARIES)—Before 4:31 p. m. is an upsetting period, mentally, physically and emotionally. Consequently, misjudgments, irritations, drastic remarks should be carefully guarded against.

April 20-May 20—(TAURUS)—The day favors activity and deals with people who are before the public. This day also favors social and domestic affairs.

May 21-June 20—(GEMINI)—Previous to 1:40 p. m. you should rely on the advice or assistance of stable people. After 1:40 p. m. does not favor dealings with those in authority.

June 21-July 22—(CANCER)—This is a most favored day for activities of a pleasant nature. Use caution that you do not overdo, and be especially in the way of spending.

July 23-August 22—(LEO)—Before 1:33 p. m. keep away from speculative ideas and scrutinize any new project that may be brought to you for decision at this time.

August 23-September 22—(VIRGO)—Through the entire morning good results should follow financial transactions, real estate deals. Old conditions and dealings with older people should work out harmoniously.

September 23-October 22—(LIBRA)—This day is favored for domestic affairs, beautifying the home. Also a favorable day for dealings in real estate.

October 23-November 21—(SCORPIO)—The influence predominating previous to 11:30 a. m. are such as may cause you to want to make changes, or do things in a hurry. Better to hold on to what you have and set steady.

November 22-December 21—(SAGITTARIUS)—This day is likely to be a busy, active day, but you may feel unsettled and have difficulty in making yourself properly understood.

December 22-January 19—(CAPRICORN)—This day favors finances, general business and dealings with others. Guard against extravagance.

January 20-February 18—(AQUARIUS)—You may be called to think for some things, but if you will give your strict attention to necessities, this can be made a most favored day.

February 19-March 20—(PISCES)—The things you least expect to happen of a disruptive nature are likely to occur, because of these you may be forced to make a change.

Katherine Cornell Agrees to Test For Role in Hollywood Film

By Louella O. Parsons.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Nov. 24.—(INS)—No wonder Lester Cowan set out for New York with a smile on his face that wouldn't come off. In his pocket was a telegram from Katherine Cornell reading: "At last it looks as if I have found the role that will bring me to Hollywood." What the one-and-only Cornell was referring to was the part of Madame Sun-Yat-Sen in Lester's picture based on the career of China's great hero, Sun-Yat-Sen. What's more, Cornell has agreed to a test when Cowan reaches New York, which is certainly farther than she has gone with any other movie offer.

Lester certainly brightened up our corner in Hot Springs when he sent a print of "The Commandos Strike at Dawn." Ann Warner, Ray Goetz and several other Hollywooders saw it at one of the theaters at a private preview. When you don't have to review movies for a living they are a lot of fun. We stayed on to see the regular show, "Nightmare," with Brian Donlevy and Diana Barrymore. It's a good thriller (to a critic on vacation) even if other reviewers did take pot shots.

Don't be surprised if "Mr. Skeffington," at long last, reaches the screen with Merle Oberon as the very much courted Mrs. Skeffington. I am told the new script is marvelous. Mrs. Skeffington starts out as a young woman and doesn't appear as an old woman until the end of the picture.

In the book, if you remember, the heroine is an old woman when she is first introduced and the change would give Merle a chance to be her young beautiful self through three-quarters of the film. Here is another little whisper—if Warner does not make it with Merle in all probability 20th Century may do it with her.

Harry Sherman, dear to the hearts of the exhibitors as a producer of money-making westerns, isn't going highbrow. But he has purchased a different and very dramatic western from a national magazine, "Hank Johnson's Brotherhood" for one of his United Artists movies starring Richard Dix. The story of Samuel W. Taylor is well off the beaten path. It revolves around a hero, very ill, who is sent out on a small cowboy town he is mistaken for the brother of a murdered man and eventually becomes involved in a murder himself. Gerald Schnitzer has been signed by Sherman to write the screen play—first of the three which Harry has purchased to star Dix.

With our best directors, as well as our best actors, in service for Uncle Sam (or heading there) Warner has something to brag about in getting Dave Butler on a long-term. Dave made his mark directing some of the best Shirley Temple musicals at 20th and the Para hit, "Caught in the Draft." Warner is a great lot for musicals—the little fact I am sure was not lost on Jack Warner when he handed Dave the new ticket.

Butler has just started "Thank Your Lucky Stars" on the lot and while his second assignment isn't announced it's a cinch to have tunes and pretty gals.

Lana Turner's husband, Steve Crane, may develop into an author instead of an actor. In collaboration with Harold Stanley, Steve has whipped up an original yarn about a journey which is seriously being considered by M-G-M to star Mickey Rooney. Last week we told you Paramount wanted to borrow Mickey for "Salty O'Rourke" but the deal was mixed because of a death-bed scene. The Crane-Stanley opus has a much happier ending. Instead of the demise of the Jockey he is shown enlisting in the Army.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD

COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Hear the Lawrence Tibbett Mrs. have dated the stork; Maxie Rosenbloom whole heart and fancy free again, is dating June Forest; it's still on with Jimmy Ritz and June Millard who continue to dance cheek-to-cheek; William Wellman, Dennis O'Keefe, Lloyd Nolan and Brian Donlevy—all expectant fathers—have organized a club. They're calling themselves "The January fathers of 1943." Herb Stein, one of Hollywood's top columnists before he became a lieutenant in the Army, marries Linda Benjamin in Hollywood Thursday; you would be surprised if you knew who was calling Frances Farmer on the phone every night; the Gary Coopers off to New York and a vacation after Gary's long stint in "For Whom the Bell Tolls." That's all for today. See you tomorrow. But Helen Cesario, Chicago, says: "Buy bonds today and more tomorrow. And when you're through there'll be no sorrow."

MY DAY: How the Working Mother Manages

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON.—I happened to read an article the other day in which it was stated that, if women were going to work, they could not take care of their homes and rear their families.

It would never occur to me that it would not be clear to any thinking person that even in a country where the man power situation is as critical as it is in Great Britain, no woman with young children is even asked to go to work. Everything possible is being done to keep her in her own home, and I agree 100 per cent that a child is better off with its own mother, even though I know that some of them are not perfect.

Most of the little children in resident nurseries in Great Britain are there because it is better for them to be out of the big cities, which are more frequent targets for bombings. The other little children whom you find in day nurseries usually belong to women who, for one reason or another, must go to work. They very likely would leave their child or children with relatives, if they could.

The government thinks that better care is obtainable through system of day nurseries and nursery schools and is, therefore, trying to encourage the mothers to leave them in such places. You may wonder why anyone should really be forced to ask care for little children outside the home. Yet, if you stop to think, you will realize that there are a good many women in Great Britain whose husbands are already on the casualty lists and that means the mother is the bread-winner of the family. That may happen in other countries as well.

There is one thing I found most interesting in all the arrangements made for women who work in Great Britain. If you are in one of the military services, and your husband is coming home on leave, you may at once apply for leave yourself and it will be granted without any red tape, by your immediate superior. This is also true, I understand, in many of the factories. If a man is coming home on leave, his wife may get leave from her work in the factory at the same time.

PRESENTED BY CELANESE CORP.

Program Tonight By Baptist Group

The theme, "It Is Better To Build Boys and Girls Than To Mend Men and Women," will be used as the central thought on the program by the Young People's Auxiliaries of the Druid Hills Baptist church this evening at the church at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. J. D. Rhodes, W. M. U. stewardship chairman, will preside and the principles of giving and sharing will be carried out in the entire program. Miss Eleanor Anderson, Y. W. A., will bring the devotional using Psalm 24-1, followed by a duet featuring Misses Gloria Hailey, Mary Lawrence and Frankie Drake. Mrs. Charles Thrash, Sunbeam counselor, will present a felt-graph story, "Choosing the Co-operative Program" will form the subject of a skit to be given by Mrs. H. A. Cole and five intermediate G. A. S. A. medley of stewardship songs will be played by Miss Madge Williams on the accordion. Five junior G. A. S. will interpret "Victory Through Stewardship," assisted by their counselor, Mrs. I. Gier Hailey.

Frank Kroeger and David Howard, two R. A.'s with Mrs. Guy Edmondson and Mrs. Ward Burt will give "Dear Mom: Just a Line to Say." Mrs. Guy Edmondson, Mrs. Wilson Teel, Mrs. Foster Rueh, Mrs. Bernard Herring will sing "Have Thine Own Way," and the program will be closed with a special prayer by Mrs. F. P. Drake, leader of the Young People's work at Druid Hills.

The ushers will be boys in the Royal Ambassador organization.

Miss Melton, of Fayetteville, Becomes Bride of Mr. Stookey

FAYETTEVILLE, Ga., Nov. 24. Of cordial interest to friends of Georgia and Alabama is the announcement made today of the marriage of Miss Kathleen Melton, daughter of Mrs. Bessie Melton, of near this city, and V. B. Melton, of Atlanta, to Ivor Huelson Stookey, of Mobile, Ala., formerly of Kentucky.

The ceremony was impressively performed by Rev. Earnest L. Norton, of Hapeville, on Thursday evening, October 15, at 6 o'clock, at the home of the bride's cousin, Miss Elizabeth Simpson, in Hapeville, in the presence of relatives and close friends.

Mrs. George Waddy, of Jonesboro, was matron of honor, and the bride's only attendant. She was dressed in powder blue and wore black accessories. Her flowers were rose-colored roses. Mrs. Valentine, of Mobile, Ala., was best man for the bridegroom.

The lovely bride was modestly attired in a sheer wool crepe dress of the bride's blue with which she wore black accessories. Her flowers were pink roses and valley lilies.

The bride is a representative of well-known Georgia and Alabama families. Her mother is the former Miss Bessie Simpson, daughter of John Venable Simpson, and the late Mrs. Irene Thornton Simpson, of Fayetteville county, of near this city.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Emma Huelson Stookey and the late Earl Stookey, of Kentucky. He received his education in Kentucky and is connected with the Mobile Air Depot at Mobile, Ala., where he and his bride are residing.

Wedding Announced. BUFFALO, Ala., Nov. 24.—Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Trammell, of Buffalo, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Elizabeth Trammell, to Philip Faulkner, of Manchester, Ga.

The ceremony took place on November 7 in the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Jack S. Buice, of Manchester, Ga. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. C. Reese, of Manchester.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Faulkner, of Manchester, is in the consular service, will speak on "Australia."

Patrol Eager To Return Big Loot Collection

2 Tickets to Tech-Georgia Game, War Bonds In Assortment.

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., Nov. 24. (P)—The Georgia state highway patrol has two tickets to the Georgia-Georgia Tech football game, eight gasoline ration books and an assortment of war saving bonds and stamps that it has taken over from a wide-ranging collector and wants to return to the rightful owners.

State Trooper E. D. Mink, painstakingly cataloguing the haul, announced tonight it included Confederate money denominated for $70.

Trooper Mink said the collection was taken from an automobile confiscated from a man charged with overpowering a Tennessee state patrol officer near Chattanooga.

Patrol Sergeant P. Milton arrested the man near Adairville and reported he identified himself as Walter Kembro, of Orlando, Fla. Mink said the man had admitted disarming Tennessee Patrol Corporal Lee Hixson, when the officer stopped him for questioning. Georgia officers captured Kembro, and arranged for his return to Chattanooga.

Mink said the collection in the man's car was "amazing." There were nine diamond rings and an assortment of other jewelry, four pistols, much ammunition, 373 pens and a portable typewriter.

Articles from Louisiana, Florida, Tennessee, Georgia, South Carolina, and Virginia were found in the car, Mink said.

Kembro said he picked up four tickets to the Tech-Georgia game at Macon, Ga., but had given two away, Mink reported.

The war bonds were listed as property of William M. Addison, of Columbia, S. C. Mink said the gasoline ration books were listed for W. N. Hartman, of Richmond, Va., W. N. Kimbrough, of Tampa, Fla., J. L. Bradbury, of Macon, Ga., and William H. Mewborn, of Atlanta. Three others had no names on them.

Hope Is Expressed For Unity of Labor

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(P)—Expressions of hope for the future unification of the American labor movement were expressed tonight by Philip Murray, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Speaking at a dinner of the labor division of the British War Relief Society, they praised the effort and the unity of purpose of American labor in helping win the war.

40 Cents Hour Asked For Hosiery Industry

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(P)—An industry committee recommendation that employees in the seamless hosiery industry be paid a minimum wage of 40 cents an hour was submitted today to L. Metcalfe Walling, administrator of the Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Division of the U. S. Department of Labor.

No witnesses appeared at a public hearing, called in conformity with the Fair Labor Standards Act, which provides that after an industry committee recommends a minimum wage a public hearing must be held.

Two-thirds of the seamless hosiery plants and three-fourths of the plants in the industry are located in North Carolina, Tennessee and Georgia, the Labor Department said.

Winchell Is Expected To Give Up Broadcasts

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Nov. 24.—(P)—Winchell, who arrived tonight en route to perform an undisclosed mission, said only that he is "running an errand for Uncle Sam."

Winchell admitted that he has requested leave of absence from newspaper and radio work but refused to comment on the exact nature of his visit.

He will be here through Sunday, when he will make what probably will be his last regular nation-wide broadcast for some time.

Japs Yield Ground To American Troops In Solomons Battle

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Apparently isolated by a tight blockade, Japanese on the island of Guadalcanal are yielding ground to slowly advancing American troops whose ultimate aim is to drive the foe into the sea, the Navy disclosed today.

Vigilant day and night patrols, presumably by aircraft and naval vessels, have made it "very unlikely" that the enemy has been able to get reinforcements ashore, Secretary of the Navy Knox said at a press conference.

A short time later, a communiqué said that on November 23 "United States forces continued limited advances west of the Matinkau river." This stream lies west of Henderson airfield, vital point in the American positions.

Japanese Active Japanese in mountains south of the field have been active, the communiqué disclosed, but it was not known whether they were seeking to flank the American forces driving westward.

On the night of November 23, "United States aircraft attacked enemy positions," the communiqué stated, without giving details.

Before the great naval battle a fortnight ago, the Japanese were landing reinforcements on the island almost every other night. Cruiser-dest over groups would come close to the beaches and feed in forces of up to 900 men. But now it "is possible but not probable" that the Japanese are able to get reinforcements ashore, Knox said, "because rigid United States patrols are working day and night."

Enemy Pressed Back The naval secretary also indicated a belief that Japanese troops to the west of the American positions have been virtually cut off from the remainder of their forces in the Northwestern Solomons. "Meanwhile, the Japanese Americans have been pressing the enemy back on the west."

He declared that the American-controlled position extends along the shore of Guadalcanal for a distance of about 16 miles. At Henderson Field it runs to a depth of some four miles.

Naval officers who attended the secretary's press conference pointed out that this is less than 3 per cent of the area of the island. In response to a question, Knox said the elimination of the enemy from Guadalcanal is the ultimate American objective there.

Canada Calls Off Reception For Willkie

TORONTO, Nov. 24.—(P)—There will be no formal civic reception for Wendell Willkie when he arrives tomorrow to address a mass meeting on behalf of the Canadian aid to Russia fund. The reception plans for a civic reception were quietly dropped after controversy was aroused by the remarks of Willkie in a recent speech, in which he criticized the statement by Prime Minister Churchill that he was not appointed "to preside over the liquidation of the British empire."

A distinguished list of platform guests, however, will be alongside Willkie at the meeting in Maple Leaf gardens tomorrow night. Willkie will be introduced by Finance Minister James L. Macpherson, newly-appointed Canadian minister to Russia, and E. Gustaf, Russian minister to Canada who recently took up his post at Ottawa.

The address of the former Republican presidential candidate will be broadcast from 9 to 10 p. m. E. W. T. over the national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Georgia Twins Honored by Navy

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(P)—The Navy announced today that 34 members of the Naval service armed crews aboard merchant vessels have been awarded letters of commendation for outstanding conduct under fire.

Nine enlisted men, among them "twins," were commended for "speedy action, bravery and coolness" exhibited under fire while serving as members of an armed guard unit. All hold the rating of seaman, first class, U. S. Naval Reserve.

Among those receiving letters of commendation, signed by Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, were:

Leonard Joel Sanders and his twin, Leonard John Sanders, 21-year-old sons of Warren Franklin Sanders, Route 3, Toombsboro, Ga.; Sam Brack Wallington, 21, son of Mrs. Bess Mitchell Thruen, 505 Gaines Circle, Fort Benning, Ga.

Williamson Places Tech at Top of Nation's Football Teams

All in the Game
By JACK TROY

Resume Jumping "Hello, Jack," read the salutation on the card from Station Hospital A-7, Fort Benning. . . "A few lines to let you know we boys of ward A-7 will go back to parachute jumping and give our bids to that 'great Georgia team.'" It was signed by Private John Lieber, 505th Paratroop Regiment.

It has been a lot of fun, arguing pro and con about the merits of football in various sections, and any time the Paratroopers, and others, at Benning find time hanging heavily on their hands, they will find a ready listener in this department.

To the boys in ward D-4 1/2, Benning, I want to say that the likeness of this columnist and the notations about the Auburn game were highly enjoyed by office workers as well as myself.

But when it was written that Auburn's "season" would be at stake, it was no laughing matter. Saturday's victory made it a success in capital letters.

Now the season moves toward the grand climax—Tech vs. Georgia. It's always a star-spangled attraction, with records of little consequence.

This time there is the possibility of bowl bids in the offing . . . and a new Athens record of somewhere between 42,000 and 44,000 supporters at Sanford field.

There'll be a lot of football on display Saturday.

A Great Game The swiftly moving events of the varsity season, involving Tech and Georgia, sort of swallowed up the normal discussions about the annual Scottish Rite game, wherein the Bullpups and Baby Jackets fight it out in the name of the crippled children of the hospital . . . on Thanksgiving Day.

It is a great game. To prove once again it is a great game and that people have taken it to their hearts, just consider that in spite of the varsity game monopolizing all the attention, a steady advance sale of tickets promises a full house tomorrow at Grant field.

It's only natural supporters have been talking about the varsity teams and giving little thought to the freshmen.

Jackets, Bulldogs On Cats' 'All-Foe'

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Alabama placed four men on the Kentucky Wildcats' all-opponents team, as announced today by Roy Steinfort, publicity director, who conducted the poll.

Georgia Tech placed three men on the team, including Clint Castleberry, sensational freshman back. Georgia rated two men and Vanderbilt and West Virginia one each. George Poschner, Georgia wingman, was an almost unanimous choice, with Frankie Sinkwich, a backfield team mate, only a step behind.

The team: Ends, Poschner, of Georgia, and Sharp, of Alabama; tackles, Whitmore, of Alabama, and Kulakowski, of West Virginia; guards, Hardy, of Georgia Tech, and Leon, of Alabama; center, Domanovich, of Alabama; quarterback, Jenkins, of Vanderbilt; halves, Sinkwich, of Georgia, and Castleberry, of Georgia Tech, and halfback, Plasters, of Georgia Tech.

Eagles, Tulsa Next in Order; Georgia Falls

Wisconsin and Ohio State Forge Ahead of Bulldog Outfit.

By PAUL B. WILLIAMSON.
Now, take it easy—it wasn't such an upsetting week in the football world as you might think.

You're right, Auburn knocked Georgia out of the national championship by a score of 27-to-13 and Georgia Tech moved into the No. 1 position in the Williamson System Ratings but the system batted 86.6 per cent correct on a straight win-or-lose basis for all games predicted.

Actually there were only 13 upsets over the week-end. Seven of those games were toss-up affairs. In other words in some 100 games of the week, really only six outrageous results occurred. These were topped by the important Georgia-Auburn battle.

Most of the prognosticators last week fixed on Georgia to keep its place as No. 1 team of the nation. The Bulldogs had to be placed there because of their record. But the Williamson System prediction story in mid-week carefully pointed out that this game between Georgia and the Tigers of the Plains is almost as old as football itself and can't be classified precisely. The upset carried out a tradition—it makes about the seventh time a more highly regarded team of these two has fallen to a supposedly weaker foe.

The Williamson scientific football ratings and predictions performance must pin its week-to-week calculations squarely on the figures turned up by the season's record. The win-or-lose mark this week-end, second highest for the 1942 gridiron battles, shows the high caliber of results obtained by sticking closely to the facts.

A successful hunch is a rarity in any kind of contest. Never the less, the Williamson system believes that a thorough knowledge of the background, the history and the traditions of every football team and game in the nation is desirable to temper the figures upon which its predictions are based.

Georgia Tech is No. 1 team in the national ratings. This week-end it jumped up to that spot from No. 3 by downing Florida 20-to-7. Actually the Rumbling Wreck should have put over two or more touchdowns against the Gators.

Boston College stays at No. 2 place by a 37-to-0 win over Boston U. The Eagle of Boston College really should have made four or five more touchdowns in that game. Thus Tech gets the best of the showing, and goes over the Eagles.

To complete the leading triumvirate of undefeated and untied major teams, at No. 3 comes Tulsa, conqueror of Creighton 33-to-19. The remarkable Badgers of Wisconsin took over No. 4 position by vanquishing Minnesota 20-to-6. Ohio State must be ranked just under them for really whipping Michigan, 21-to-7. While it is true that the Buckeyes of Ohio State have won the 1942 Big Nine championship on percentage basis, the games won divided by games played in conference competition and have a better percentage in that respect than Wisconsin, still the Buckeyes did lose to the Badgers by 17-to-7 and therefore consistently must come below them in the Williamson ratings.

CRESPY IN I.A.
ST. LOUIS, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Frank Crespi, infielder of the St. Louis Cardinals, was notified by his draft board today of his classification in I-A for military service.

Crespi, 24 years old, was the Cardinals' second baseman in 1941 but played as a substitute on this season's world championship team.

Decatur Plays Typists Tonight In Charity Tilt

Season Finale Sponsored By Lions Club; 8:15 Kick-Off.

By CHARLIE ROBERTS.

Tonight is just about the last chance Atlanta fans will have to see prep football teams in action this season, and those who journey out to the Decatur High field to see the now powerful Decatur Bulldogs battle Commercial High will be donating to a worthy cause in the bargain, for this is the annual tilt sponsored by the Decatur Lions Club for the benefit of the DeKalb county needy.

The game, originally scheduled for Thursday morning, has been moved up to 8 o'clock tonight, so folks can stay home, eat their Thanksgiving dinner and have time for it to digest before going out to see the Georgia Tech-Georgia freshman tilt at Grant Field that afternoon.

The home eleven, which has been under the tutelage of Big Bill Badgett since Smoky Joe Martin quit for a government job in mid-season, is now among the more powerful and colorful teams in the state. The Decatur outfit did something no other team has been able to do all season, beat Griffin High's brilliant "point a minute" team. Harlan Brown, 195-pound fullback who was converted into a center this year, has no peer in the state at backing up a line and it is a real pleasure to watch the indefatigable "Neighbor"—as the boys call him—bring them crashing to earth. It was he who kept the touted Griffin oval toters in check.

A versatile backfield composed of Marvin Weaver, a hard runner; Duke Harty, who is a power back, a fine pass-catcher and one of the best defensive backs in the vicinity, and Allen Shelton, a brilliant passer and kicker and better than an average runner, harbors enough fire power to keep any foe in hot water throughout any ball game.

Coach Shirley Watkins' Typists but have been greatly improved in their late games on a very tough schedule. The Commercial tied North Fulton and that is the same thing Decatur did. Also the Typists scored a touchdown on Columbus High recently, and that was more than Boys' High's fine eleven did. So it is highly likely a great game is in prospect for those who go out to Decatur tonight.

TILT CANCELED.

Witt-Beers Memorial Trophy Will Go to Tech-Georgia Victor

COLUMBUS, Ga., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Plans for awarding a memorial trophy in honor of two former football players killed in action with American forces to the winner of the Georgia-Georgia Tech game at Athens were announced today.

The trophy, a tribute to Tommy Witt, of Georgia and Bobby Beers, of Tech, will be presented to the winning team by a representative of the losing squad.

Miniature airplanes adorn the sides of the trophy, with a history of the two heroes engraved opposite. Witt died in action in Egypt and Beers was killed "somewhere over England." The name of the winning team each year will be engraved on a plaque in the center.

Sponsors of the trophy, donated by President C. C. Colbert of the Nehi Corporation of Columbus, have announced the award will be made during a special program at an Athens hotel after the game, and at which time announcements concerning bowl bids for the two teams are expected to be made.

The presidents and coaches of the two schools have accepted the trophy as an official token and presentation ceremonies are planned for succeeding games, the sponsors said.

Jack Gibney, Tony Barretti and John Cates, of radio station WRBL, Columbus, headquarters of the Georgia sports network, are credited with the idea for the trophy.

Aerial Circus Expected In Tech-Georgia Fray

Both Teams Go Through the Air With Greatest of Ease, Statistics Prove.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

It's little wonder that Georgia Tech continued to stress pass defense and offense in the first scrimmage of the week yesterday because a look at the records reveal that both the Jackets and Bulldogs throw the ball a lot and both gain a lot of ground that way.

Georgia has a tendency to take to the air a bit more than the Yellow Jackets and has a little better completion record. But Tech has averaged just as much as the Bulldogs on its completions, both gaining 17 yards per try when their receivers snag 'em.

Wally Butts' boys have had a total of 220 passes in 10 games this year and completed exactly 50 per cent of them for 1,951 yards. The Jackets, on the other hand, have thrown 153 passes in nine games, completing about 42 per cent of them for 1,139 yards. Both teams have averaged about 17 yards per completion.

Here are the passing records of the teams:

Opponent	At-tempted	Com-pleted	Yds.
Kentucky	21	10	120
Furman	31	14	200
Navy	10	6	115
Ole Miss	28	15	276
Tulane	14	9	216
Cincinnati	14	8	272
Alabama	37	18	231
Florida	15	9	236
Chattanooga	16	9	95
Auburn	34	12	190
TOTALS	220	110	1951
Georgia Tech	21	10	120
Auburn	12	4	139
Notre Dame	13	4	66
Chattanooga	21	10	185
Davidson	19	10	163
Navy	19	11	198
Duke	20	5	62
Kentucky	18	12	188
Alabama	13	4	62
Florida	14	5	76
TOTALS	153	65	1139

In only one game have the Bulldogs failed to gain as much as 100 yards passing. Tech has failed four times but their competition was a good bit tougher than the Bulldogs. Georgia has gained 200 yards or better against six foes while the Jackets have not reached the 200-yard mark, lacking only two yards against Navy.

In view of all this, it's little wonder that the 43,000 fans who will watch the two teams battle it out Saturday on Sanford field for the Southeastern conference championship are expecting the air to be flooded with spectacular passes. They will be thrown by Frank Sinkwich and Charlie Trippi on one side and by Eddie Brokop, Clint Castleberry and Bobby Sheldon on the other. They will be caught by Lamar Davis, George Poschner, Van Davis and Ken Keuper on one side and by Jack Marshall, Jack Helms, Pat McHugh, Rabbit Jordan and Davey Eldredge on the other.

Frankie Sinkwich has made a runaway race of the individual scoring chase in the Southeastern Conference. The Georgia half-back's 96 points put him 43 ahead of second-place Charley Kuhn, of Kentucky, and he has doubled the three tied third-placers.

Jack Jenkins, of Vanderbilt, and Jim Reynolds, of Auburn, advanced into a tie with Lamar Davis, of Georgia, for No. 3 spot. Jenkins, Davis and Sinkwich tallied a touchdown each, with Jenkins adding three extra points also. Reynolds got two touchdowns against Georgia.

With Sara Killian leading the way, Lewis Baker's Seahawks broke into the win column in the Waltham Girls Basketball League, downing Hub Huddell's battling Lawtons last night at Warren Arena, 35 to 21.

The Lawson girls, making their first start in the league, played the Seahawks on even terms through the first half but finally weakened when three of their starting guards fouled out. Sara Killian, forward, was the scoring star with 20 points. Hyde was tops for the losers with 13. Casey and Farmer stood out as guards for Lawson.

In the opening game, Jake Gardner's Georgia Power girls outlasted the Loretta Ladies to win, 35 to 23, in a close, contested affair until the final period when the Trojans' smooth working forward combined with good defense to grooves found the hoops from all angles. Allen, a former Piedmont College star, looked particularly good for the Trojans. She alternated at guard and forward and played well at both positions.

John McCarty's state champion Walco kept their league record clean with a 35-to-18 victory over an improved Southern Bell sextet. Fouts, with 14 points, led the winning attack. Fouts was outstanding for Southern Bell, registering 12 points.

Tech Victory Over Georgia Would Virtually Clinch Rose Bowl Bid

Mad Bulldogs Hoping To Pull Upset Victory

Holy Cross Looms as Serious Threat to Boston Eagles.

By EDWARD W. COCHRANE.
NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(INS)—Five of the six undecided conference football championships of America definitely will be settled and the sixth may be determined as a result of games Thursday and Saturday which virtually will drop the curtain on the famous college pastime for 1942.

The five to be determined will be in the Southwest, Big Six, Southern, Southeast and Big Seven. It is possible that the Pacific Coast race will be finished, Ohio State already has won the Big Ten and Tulsa in the Missouri Valley.

Interest centers on two games, both to be played Saturday. In one, Boston College definitely will clinch its claim to eastern supremacy if it beats Holy Cross and thus be chosen for a game in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans on New Year's Day. In the other, Georgia Tech and Georgia will clash at Athens to decide two things—the championship of the Southeast conference and the right to go to Pasadena to play the Pacific Coast conference champion in the Rose Bowl.

ALL TO GAIN

Having lost to Auburn, Georgia now becomes the underdog in its battle with its old rival from Atlanta. Georgia is in the enviable position of having nothing to lose and much to gain, while Tech has an undefeated and untied record—the only one left in that section and one of the three in the United States.

Thus Georgia will go into this battle fighting mad in the hope that it can bring its arch-enemy of years' standing down on even terms with it for the conference crown and possibly spoil a trip to Pasadena for the Engineers.

There is little doubt that Georgia would have gone to the Rose Bowl if it had whipped Auburn and Tech, as it was favored by the Pacific Coast committee, but unless Georgia can beat Bill Alexander's team there is no chance for such an invitation to be received by Georgia now.

On the other hand a victory for Tech will almost assure that team a trip to California for the classic. This will be a battle between the senior Sinkwich and the freshman Castleberry. Don't be shocked if Sinkwich & Co. bounce back after that Auburn upset and win, although I'm picking Tech because when the chips are down Alexander is hard to whip if he has the material. He appears to have plenty of it this campaign.

It may interest you to know that Boston College isn't counting on a victory over Holy Cross until it happens. Boston remembers the year when its Eagles were 10 to 1 favorites over Holy Cross and got whipped. The Eagles will take no chance on a repetition of that affair and should win.

AGGIES vs. TEXAS.
Texas is going to have quite a job on its hands taking care of Texas A. & M. The Longhorns are favorites and can win the Southwest Conference title Thursday if they take this game on their home grounds. But this is another old traditional affair that has seen many upsets in past years. If Texas loses it will be possible for Baylor to tie for the crown if it can beat Rice Saturday.

Missouri, leading in the Big Six, should beat weak Kansas easily. But the Tigers looked miserable against Fordham, so an upset there is possible but not probable. Victory for Missouri will clinch the conference throne.

Utah leads the Big Seven, but will be tied by Colorado if the latter is successful in beating Denver Thursday. Denver will furnish stiff opposition.

William and Mary will clinch the Southern Conference leadership if it can beat Richmond, which shouldn't be difficult. Washington State will be fighting for a trip to the Rose Bowl when it tangles with Washington in Seattle Saturday. The Cougars appear to be as good as any team in the league, despite a loss to U. S. C., and should win. Even a victory won't clinch the title because U. S. C. or U. C. L. A. might tie for it later. Each has to win two games to do it and they play each other December 12. If Washington State loses to Washington the December 12 game between the Trojans and U. C. L. A. will determine which team will go to the Bowl.

Shrine Pageant Is Added To Freshman Attraction

Spectacular War-Time Display Will Be Paraded Between Halves at Grant Field.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.
One of the most spectacular wartime pageants ever seen in Atlanta will be staged during half-time at the Tech-Georgia freshman football game Thursday at Grant Field.

The entire unit of eight uniformed bodies of the Yaarab Temple of the Shrine will stage the display, which will include the flags of all the United Nations.

Before the game the Shrine men will parade around the track, starting at 2:20 o'clock. They will occupy the entire intermission period.

Meanwhile, both Tech and Georgia freshman teams are reported ready for the battle, the 10th in the series for the benefit of the crippled children at the Scottish Rite hospital. Tickets have been selling at a rapid pace and a crowd of some 30,000 is expected to attend.

Neither team has been established as favorite. Tech defeated Auburn, 14-7, while the Bulldogs whipped the same team, 19-13. The Baby Jackets lost, 0-7, to a Sewanee team which consisted of varsity players off last year's team. Georgia defeated Clemson, 33-7, in its only other game.

The Bulldogs lead, 6-3, in the series and have won the last three games. Therefore, the Baby Jacket ets will be out after revenge and a hard battle is expected.

Two of the best freshman passers in the business will be playing against each other. Tech's star is Frank Broyles of Decatur, while the Bulldogs rely on the good right arm of little H. C. Hickman, of Athens High.

Broyles has a couple of fine receivers in Lamar Jordan, a brother of Bill and Rabbit, who also plays end, and Don Paschall, wingback, ex-Boys' High ace.

Hickman does most of his passing to James Griffith, tall end, and also likes to throw to his wingback, Lee Bradberry.

Two ace freshmen won't be in action because of their varsity duties. Tech's Clint Castleberry and Georgia's Sonny Lloyd have been playing with their big brothers all season and won't compete in the game.

Kickoff time is 3 o'clock which will give you plenty of time to finish that Thanksgiving dinner.

ALL IN THE GAME

Tech people have been giving all their attention to a freshman named Castleberry, who won't be playing Thursday. He has a date two days later with the Georgia varsity.

Georgia folks haven't had any freshman aces on their varsity squad to burn up the nation's gridirons, but they have been pleased with the progress of certain ones.

So the Scottish Rite game has slipped up, in a manner of speaking. But the tickets have been sold steadily, nevertheless. The good seats in east and west stands are gone. But this year the south stand is being reserved, and so there will be fine seats available until the kickoff.

It's Important It has been suggested that because of a depletion of man power of football squads, this may be the last Tech-Georgia hospital game for the duration. It should not be. There should never be a cessation of the series. There's too much at stake. The money has meant too much to the Scottish Rite hospital; it has meant too much to the infants who couldn't have had treatment otherwise.

It may be necessary to curtail a lot of activities, but when the future of youngsters is at stake and it is possible to carry it through, handicaps and all, it should be done.

I prefer to go on the assumption that the game will be an annual feature until Hirohito, Hitler and all the other Axis rats are done in, and that it will prosper increasingly as the years roll on.

There probably are a lot of honest charities. But there is not one that can touch the Scottish Rite game dollar for dollar.

The game proceeds are used for only one thing—to restore crippled children to useful citizenship. Whatever expenses are incurred are taken care of through program advertising. There aren't many expenses.

Where the work of the hospital is involved, however, expenses are manifold, and among other considerations is the rise of prices of many necessary items.

Tech-Georgia freshman game money is, in this particular time, most important in the series history.

It's nice to know that Atlantans have been so thoughtful in their patronage of the current attraction.

Metro Golfers Compete Today
The Metropolitan women golfers will hold a tournament beginning at 10 o'clock this morning at Piedmont park. Special prizes will be awarded winners in low net divisions. All members are urged to participate.

Winners of the eight turkeys in last week's tournament will receive their prizes at the conclusion of today's tournament.

Enthusiasm At Fever Pitch In 'Athenstown'

Yellow 'T's,' Prediction of Tech Win Appear on Georgia Campus.

By F. M. WILLIAMS
ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 24.—Georgia's Bulldogs drilled long and hard today against the vaunted passing attack of Georgia Tech, and planned to wind up rough drills with an offensive skirmish tomorrow.

Coach Wallace Butts' boys looked ragged against the deceptive Jacket forwards, as put on by the freshmen, and they're probably due for plenty more defense before the week is out.

Meanwhile, enthusiasm in the game reached fever pitch among members of the student body and citizens of Athens.

The fans were touched off when Tech supporters or students invaded the Georgia campus and plastered it with yellow paint from the famous arch at the entrance to the campus to the goal posts on the gridiron.

YELLOW 'T's'
Yellow 'T's' were painted on most of the columns of buildings on the campus, and on a few available spots (a amateur paint brush wielders predicted the score: Tech 40, Georgia 0.

The university campus leaders issued a call for a gigantic pep meeting Wednesday night, which they said was for the purpose of "seeking revenge" through giving the Bulldog team wholehearted support.

Signed by Tom Penland, campus leader; Bobby Bray, president of the Inter-fraternity Council; Jean Young, president of the Women's Pan-Hellenic Council, and Kathryn Rice, non-sorority leader; the notice to the students reads as follows:

"Five years ago an agreement was made between responsible leaders of the Georgia and Tech student bodies that from this time forward neither group would mar the campus of the other.

"Sunday evening vandals entered the university, marred its buildings and walks with yellow paint.

STUDENTS UNITED.
The students of the University of Georgia have been united as never before by this action. Their answer to such deeds will be a clean cut and resounding defeat of Georgia Tech in Sanford stadium—Saturday, November 28, 1942.

"We are asking that no student seek any revenge except wholehearted support of our team."

The game is Georgia's annual homecoming affair and in addition to the sports activities, a full weekend of social functions is planned.

The game was a sell-out two weeks ago, yet orders by telephone and mail continue to pile into the athletic office here. Authorities can only return the checks, or tell those asking in person that no more ducks are available.

Bowling
The annual Thanksgiving Day "Bowling Jubilee" is to be held this Thursday night at the downtown alleys at 7:30. There will be a men's and a women's tournament. A $25 war bond will be awarded the first-place winner in each division, and other prizes will be given as entries warrant. This tournament will be on a handicap basis. The men will be based on a 3-4 from 120, the women on 3-4 from 110. This arrangement makes everybody have an equal chance to win. Five games will be rolled. A small entry fee will be charged.

Up through Monday night the following entries had been received: Ed Addison, J. P. Burnett, W. J. Lowanda, M. F. Moody, Carl Tidwell, Ed Gasperini, Harry Sills, Norton Davis, C. D. Kimbro, V. Ex-Atlanta Man Helped Bring Battle-Scarred Boise to Port

Kent Stephens, 39, former Atlantan, who joined the Navy for a career—and $5 in cash—was one of the heroes who brought the 10,000-ton cruiser Boise safely back into a United States port after she sunk six Jap warships at Guadalcanal.

The battle-scarred Boise limped into Philadelphia last Thursday, completing an 8,000-mile trip under her own steam after the victory. Proudly painted on her bridge were silhouettes of three cruisers and three destroyers she sank at murderous close range off Cape Esperance at midnight on October 11.

Naval announcements listed 107 men killed on the cruiser as the result of a direct hit that exploded a magazine and started mad high fires. V. T. Stephens, of 1223 Mansfield avenue, N. E., was beginning to worry about his brother, Kent, whom he persuaded to join the Navy 20 years ago with a $5 bill and a promise that the Navy offers real careers for young men.

Stephen's Letter.
However, an air mail letter arrived yesterday from Kent Stephens. He not only came safely through the fight. He came through unscathed and with a boundless pride in Uncle Sam's Navy, especially the gallant cruiser Boise.

"We went in to draw the fire from the Japs while the other cruisers blasted away at them, but it turned out that the Boise got six ships and the others got only three," he wrote. "She also got nine shell holes in her and lost 104 men and three officers."

"I was lucky—didn't even get a scratch."

"We left the battle with our ship in flames, but we soon put out the fire. The other ships apparently thought we were lost, for they sent one destroyer back to pick up the survivors. They found us at daybreak October 12—the day after the battle. We made port okay."

"So now we are in Philadelphia for repairs, after an 8,000-mile trip. Guess we will be here a couple of months or until after Christmas anyway."

In his account of the fighting, Stephens, who was chief water tender on the Boise, was high in his praise of the other cruisers and destroyers which took part in the battle. He estimated the Japanese lost 5,000 or 6,000 men.

A native of Oxford, Ga., Stephens came to Atlanta when a youth to live with his brother, V. T. Stephens, who saw service in France with the United States Army during World War I, persuaded the youngster to enlist in the Navy.

"I told him the Navy had plenty to offer an ambitious young man," Stephens said. "Then I gave him $5 to join."

Kent Stephens, who has a wife and three children—two boys and a girl—at Long Beach, Cal., visited Atlanta four years ago. He

Macon Metal Dealer Enjoined by U.S. Court

As the result of a civil suit, filed in the U. S. district court at Macon, to enforce the child-labor provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act, the Macon Iron & Paper Stock Co., dealers in metal scrap and paper, has been permanently enjoined from violating these provisions of the act.

The judgment, signed by Judge Bascom S. Deaver, was entered with the defendant's consent, upon a complaint filed by Katherine F. Lenroot, chief of the children's bureau, charging that the company had employed several minors under 16 years of age from last August 16 to November 12. The complaint further charged that the company employed minors in a hazardous occupation and had shipped goods from its Macon plant to points outside the state of Georgia in violation of the child-labor provisions of the act.

President of Bolivia Will Pay Visit to U. S.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(P)—President Enrique Penaranda, of Bolivia, has accepted an invitation from President Roosevelt to visit the United States, the State Department said today.

Arrangements for the visit, including the date for President Penaranda's arrival in Washington, are going forward in La Paz, it was understood.

Full Tummys Seen For Atlanta Diners On Thanksgiving

Atlantans, regardless of whatever else they may have to grumble about, will have their tummys full on Thanksgiving Day, if brisk grocery store sales of turkeys and other comestibles are any criterion.

The traditional bird, say the grocers, is in great demand, and early yesterday virtually all the turkeys at the wholesalers had been sold and storage warehouses of the larger chain stores had been emptied in favor of their retail markets on a "ration" basis, in order to assure some birds in all parts of the city.

Army Feasts.

Probably the majority of turkeys in town belong to the armed forces, where mess sergeants are planning gargantuan feasts which include nearly two pounds of turkey per man, served with all the trimmings.

The cakes, pies and other desserts will not be lacking for the holiday meal at military posts, but others, even many Army officers, will find themselves eating fresh fruit instead of mince meat pie, and drinking hot tea in place of coffee.

Most impressive menu of any of the military posts in this one from Fort McPherson, which includes oyster steak, roast turkey, baked dressing, giblet turkey, bar-becued fresh pork ham, knokflake potatoes, green peas, baked corn, candied yams, lettuce and sliced tomatoes, hearts of celery, fruit salad, sweet pickles, stuffed olives, cranberry sauce, pumpkin pie, mince meat pie, fruit cake, coconut cake, candy, nuts, hot rolls and butter, assorted fruits, ice cream, cold drinks, coffee, milk and cigars and cigarettes.

Lawson Goodies.

The mess hall at Lawson General hospital will offer personnel and patients the following goodies: Sweet mixed pickles, green olives, hearts of celery, tomato bouillon, saltines, roast young turkey, cranberry sauce, chestnut dressing, giblet gravy, mashed potatoes, green asparagus tips, buttered green beans, hot rolls and butter, lettuce salad, mince pie with cheese, pound cake, moulded ice cream, assorted fruits, mixed nuts, hard candy, coffee, sweet cider and cigars and cigarettes.

Air Base Dinner.

At the Naval Reserve Air Base the Thanksgiving dinner will be provided under naval supervision by a civilian operator, restaurant. The sailors, who receive a food allowance from the government in addition to their pay, will receive the following dinner for 50 cents: Roast young turkey with dressing, mashed marshmallows, sweet potatoes, fruit cake, ice cream, coffee and totes, cauliflower with Hollandaise sauce, daisy peach salad, hot mince meat pie, poppy seed rolls and coffee, tea or milk. The turkeys for this feast were all grown at Norcross.

The civilian probably will not have such great variety, nor will the individual ration of turkey be as large as that of the soldier, but the prospects are still very bright for the ordinary Atlanta family. Selling prices have been placed on turkeys and other holiday foodstuffs. Grade "A" turkeys were listed by retailers here at 45 cents per pound yesterday. This price was lower than those quoted throughout the nation, where the figure ranged from 46 to 55 cents per pound for turkeys in the larger cities.

H. G. Thornton Assumes Duties In WPB Post

Succeeds Frank H. Neely, Resigned, as Regional Head.

A shirt-sleeved, small-town businessman yesterday was settling down to his city-slicker, captain-of-financial-like job in Atlanta as regional head of the War Production Board.

He is Harry G. Thornton, Elberton banker, who succeeds Frank H. Neely, who has resigned to return to private business.

Thornton, the only small-town man to head up a regional WPA office, was appointed two weeks ago by Donald M. Nelson. This is his first venture into government service.

A second lieutenant of infantry in World War I, Thornton has served for the past eight years as president of the First National Bank of Elberton. There he owns a wholesale grocery company and large real estate holdings.

Active in the Chamber of Commerce and other civic organizations, he headed the Elbert County War Bond committee. Still in touch with military matters, he now holds the rank of major in the State Guard.

He has served on the board of directors of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for eight years. Personal of the regional WPA office under Thornton will remain the same, he indicated. O. M. Jackson, chief regional deputy director, has been in conference with the new director for many hours since Thornton took over. Other executives are expected to hold similar meetings with their new chief throughout the week.

Thornton has two sons, Harry A., a junior at Georgia Tech, and Earl, 13.

What Stocks Did.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Spots of quiet strength persisted in today's stock market, mainly among issues with a peace rating, and selling of armament securities lessened to a certain extent, but the general trend remained downward.

Further heartening news from Russia, Africa, and Dakar, in addition to hopeful South Pacific prospects, still served to prop financial sentiment as a whole. Tax offerings, however, remained as an antibuying argument and the outlook for a shorter world conflict inspired more switching out of the arms group into stocks that may benefit from the resumption of normal times.

Leaning to the off side in the curb were Humble Oil, American Cyanamid "B," American Gas and N. J. Zinc. Moderately higher quotations were posted for Aluminum of America, Lake Shore and Panepetec. The aggregate here was 126,000 versus 125,545 the day before.

Dublin Sale Of Livestock Totals $15,227

Much Poultry Is Also Sold and Industry To Be Revived.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. DUBLIN, Ga., Nov. 24.—The livestock auction sales here experienced another heavy run of both hogs and cattle last week, and the total turned amounted to $15,227.74 the second largest here in several months.

No. 1 hogs sold for $11.95 per 100 pounds; No. 2s $11.60 and No. 3s $11.50. Good roughs brought from $11 to $12 per hundred-weight, according to grade, and butcher shoats from $11.50 to $13.00.

The cattle market was steady with a good demand continuing for butcher types.

Total hog sales amounted to $7,989.53, and cattle $7,238.21.

A co-operative poultry sale here Saturday for Laurens county farmers, the first held in several years, brought growers a total of $461.46, County Agent Harry A. Edge said today.

So successful was the sale, Mr. Edge said, that it has been decided to hold another some time before Christmas, and the Dublin Lions Club has agreed to promote a program of poultry raising in Laurens county for the coming year, in view of the impending rationing of other meats and the consequent increase in poultry prices expected as a result.

Poultry raising has not been stressed in this county to the extent that livestock raising has, Mr. Edge recalled, and it is the purpose of these two groups to launch an intensive campaign to point out the benefits to be derived now from augmented production of chickens, eggs and turkeys, to replace scarce items of other meats brought about by increased demands for beef, pork and mutton for lease-lend purposes and shipment to American troops abroad.

Senate Group Defends Failure of Firm To Speed Output.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(AP)—A senate investigating committee tonight recommended that the Maritime Commission renegotiate its contract with the South Portland (Maine) Shipbuilding Corporation "in the light of present circumstances" but defended the yard's failure to produce cargo ships as fast as expected.

The construction delays, the committee said, "stem in substantial measure from the attempt to build ships before the facilities were completed and from the difficulty in obtaining sufficient supervisors and skilled workmen."

The committee in its report also called for the "immediate replacement of Frank Wall, Maritime Commission representative at South Portland, declaring he is not a proper or competent representative of the Maritime Commission in the construction and maintenance of a plant in which the government will have an investment of more than 19 million dollars."

Earlier the House Merchant Marine Committee in a report filed with the house recommended termination of the S. U. Portland yard's contract on grounds of "incompetence, inefficiency and obvious inability to perform its contract duties."

Curb on Profits. In still another report, the house committee urged the Maritime Commission to "tighten up" its standard contract form to prevent any "exorbitant" profits in the nation's shipbuilding program in general. This report was drafted by a subcommittee headed by Representative Peterson, Democrat, of Florida. The subcommittee was named primarily to investigate circumstances surrounding cancellation of the contract with the Higgins Corporation, of New Orleans, for construction of 200 Liberty ships, but it went into other matters as well.

The committee found that while the cancellation of the Higgins contract was regrettable, it was justified by shortage of steel and the fact that other yards already in existence could produce all the ships on the Maritime Commission program.

Truman Defense. The report defending the South Portland yard was made by a subcommittee of the Senate Defense Investigating Committee headed by Senator Truman, Democrat, of Missouri. The report said the original plan to build 18 ships on four ways at the yard had been revised to 51 ships to be constructed on six ways before the end of 1943.

"Proper facilities for fabricating and assembly of all essential accessories are still in process of development," the report said. "Special contracts were made for architectural and engineering services and for the construction of the facilities and the primary responsibility for the failure to provide adequate facilities ought not to be placed on the South Portland Shipbuilding Corporation."

A. C. Parks, 58, Dies; Rites Today

Arthur Calvin Parks, 58, an employee of Potter & Rayfield, Inc., died yesterday at the residence, 511 Deering road, N. W.

Survivors include his wife; a son, Lieutenant Charles T. Parks, United States Army, and three sisters, Mrs. J. F. Brizzell, Mrs. T. J. Forrest, Jacksonville, Fla., and Mrs. D. K. Hunsucker, New York, N. Y.

Funeral services will be held at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of Sam R. Greenberg, with the Rev. W. Earle Strickland and the Rev. Thomas M. Elliott officiating. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

The nation, he told a House Interstate Subcommittee, owes it to its armed forces and to the United States not to "take chances" on a rubber shortage interfering with the war effort.

Earlier, the committee heard Petroleum Coordinator Harold L. Ickes disclose plans for construction of a new pipeline to carry 200,000 barrels of oil daily from the southwest into the fuel-starved Atlantic seaboard.

Present Stockpile. Both Jeffers and one of his aides, L. D. Tompkins, warned that the present stockpile of crude rubber would reach the danger point next year, but foresaw brighter prospects for 1944 when Tompkins estimated production of all types of synthetic rubber would reach 800,000 tons, 100,000 above normal peacetime needs.

The blunt-spoken Jeffers conceded that there were ample supplies of gasoline in states outside the east, but added:

"Our problem is to keep the cars running," he said. "When a car comes off the road, obviously some other form of transportation must take its place."

He repeated a previous assertion that an organized campaign of opposition to nationwide rationing was "being financed by people who ought to know better."

Without identifying the source of the campaign, he told the committee "who they are I leave to you one else to judge." He was not, he added, referring to congressional opposition.

Jeffers laid before the committee samples of hundreds of postcard letters he said he had received opposing rationing, and noted that they bore striking similarity. Typical of the signers, he said, were such names as "defense worker" and "employee of U. S. post office."

Received Threats. He had even received threats that some workers "would not report for duty" if rationing were extended, he declared, but added he knew the sentiments were not those of working men.

"When they understand the story," the people will not object to rationing, he said.

Jeffers assured the committee that farmers would receive adequate supplies of gasoline to conduct their operations, asserting "the farmers are just as important to the war effort as the war worker."

Representative Brown, Republican, Ohio, related that an Ohio farmer, when applying for gasoline to operate his truck, had been asked by the county war board "if he belonged to the AAA or if he believed in it."

"I want to know whether that makes any difference," Brown said, directing his remarks to Jeffers.

New Pipeline. "That doesn't have anything to do with it," the rubber administrator replied, and "what I might say about that wouldn't be fit to put in the record."

He added that specific instructions he had given to Price Administrator Leon Henderson and Defense Transportation Director Joseph B. Eastman "were adequate to cover a situation like that."

Petroleum Coordinator Ickes told the committee that he had asked authority to construct a new pipeline from the southwestern oil fields to the Philadelphia-New York area and estimated it would take nine to 12 months to build.

He added that the proposed pipeline would be under construction from Texas to the east by way of Norris City, Ill., with a daily capacity of 300,000 barrels. This line is to be complete, as far as Illinois, by December 15, Ickes said.

Extending it to New Jersey will take until next June, however, he added, but may be delayed by a shortage of labor and of pumping equipment.

The proposed new line, Ickes said, would be 20 inches in diameter and would carry refined petroleum products. Its southwestern terminus, he added, has not definitely been established.

The petroleum co-ordinator complained that delays had been encountered in finishing the 24-inch Texas-Illinois pipelines because skilled labor had been taken up by Mr. Kaiser (Henry J. Kaiser, west coast shipbuilder) to build ships up northwest.

Committee members quizzed Ickes on how he thought public confusion over the oil supply situation might be eliminated. In reply, he suggested the public quit reading the newspapers. Efforts should be made, he said, to hold down press releases not "cleared through the office of the petroleum co-ordinator."

Frequently, he added, he had been quoted in the newspapers, only to find some other agency was anonymously disseminating statements to the opposite effect.

"Some people do the most talking who know the least about the subject," he said.

2 Million Jews Reported Slain In Nazi Europe

Hitler Reclaiming Bodies in 'Extermination Campaign.'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Dr. Stephen S. Wise, chairman of the World Jewish Congress, said tonight that he had learned through sources confirmed by the State Department that approximately half the estimated 4,000,000 Jews in Nazi-occupied Europe had been slain in an "extermination campaign."

Dr. Wise, who also is president of the American Jewish Congress and chairman of a committee composed of representatives of leading Jewish organizations in America, said these sources also confirmed:

1. That Hitler has ordered the extermination of all Jews in Nazi-ruled Europe in 1942.

2. That the Jewish population of Warsaw, Poland, already has been reduced from 500,000 to about 100,000 Jews.

3. That when chief Nazis speak of "exterminating" Jews in Poland, they speak of "four-fifths of the Jewish population in Hitler-ruled Europe," since that percentage either now is in Poland or en route there under a Nazi grouping plan.

Bodies Reclaimed. 4. That Nazis have established a price of 50 reichsmarks for each corpse—mostly Jewish, Dr. Wise indicated—and are reclaiming bodies of slain civilians to be "processed into such war-wanted commodities as soap fats and fertilizer."

"Hitler is even exhuming the dead for the value of the corpses," Dr. Wise said during a press conference shortly after he had conferred with State Department officials.

He stressed the fact that most of his information came from various sources other than the State Department, but said those sources had been confirmed as authentic by the department.

Worst Is True. In addition, he quoted a "representative of President Roosevelt recently returned from Europe" as saying that the "worst" (Dr. Wise) have thought is true.

Dr. Wise attributed the Hitlerian campaign toward elimination of all European Jewry this year to "a last desperate effort—one of his last mad acts before he is destroyed, or called to his judgment."

Recently returned from Mexico, Dr. Wise, accompanied by his son, James Waterman Wise, planned to leave Washington tonight for New York where he will meet with the Jewish committee tomorrow afternoon, after which a report of the European conditions will be issued.

Facts Confirmed. Stressing that State Department confirmation of both sources and rumors from Europe is essential to the request of the Jewish committee, Dr. Wise said that the committee had deliberately awaited such confirmation before making public any report on its investigations since it was organized last year.

"The State Department finally made available today the documents which have confirmed the stories and rumors of Jewish extermination in all Hitler-ruled Europe," he said.

One Nazi physician can handle more than 100 men an hour by this method," he added.

"Not only has Hitler ordered the extermination of all Jews in Nazi-ruled Europe in 1942, but he recently expressed his wrath at the Nazis' failure to complete the extermination immediately," Dr. Wise said.

Pickets Ordered Not To Use Abuse. Pickets of the striking workers of the Montgomery Ward Co., stationery manufacturers, were ordered yesterday by Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy, of Fulton superior court, to refrain from the use of abusive language to workers entering and leaving the plant and from the use of force.

Defendants named in the injunction were the Atlanta Printing Pressmen, an assistant to the National Typographical Union; George O. Baker, of the International Printing Pressmen Union; J. A. Manly, L. W. Harms, Clyde Padgett and Charlie Brown.

Farm Hand Held On Assault Charge. Julian Fleming, a 35-year-old farm hand, was being held without bond in the DeKalb county jail yesterday after he was charged with assault with intent to murder, records show. The stabbing occurred last Monday at the Fleming home, near Tucker.

Fleming was arrested by Officers C. M. Clark and Bob Anderson yesterday and charged with "assault with intent to murder," records show. The stabbing occurred last Monday at the Fleming home, near Tucker.

Union Service. AMERICAN, Nov. 24.—Union Thanksgiving services will be held next Thursday at the First Baptist church, the Rev. Mack Anderson, pastor of the First Methodist church, making the principal address. All churches of the city will be represented at the services.

Churches To Offer Special Services For Thanksgiving

Thousands of Atlantans will march in solemn procession tomorrow morning, this country's first war Thanksgiving in 25 years, to the church of their choice to give thanks to God that they have been granted the right to worship as free men.

Beginning at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning and continuing throughout the day members of Catholic and Protestant churches will raise their voices in songs of thanksgiving. Proceeds of many of the services will go toward the spiritual well-being of the soldiers in the camps of this country and overseas.

The verse used by the President in making the Thanksgiving proclamation: "It is a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord, and to sing praises unto Thy name, O Most High," will be used as the text of many of the messages by ministers during tomorrow's services.

Many Services

In many cases the services will bring together worshippers of different denominations for union services. Special masses will be observed in Catholic churches in honor of the men and women in the armed services.

Probably the largest service will be conducted at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning at St. Mark Methodist church uniting Methodists from all over the city. Dr. Wallace Rogers and Dr. E. G. Mackey, superintendents of the two Atlanta districts, will sponsor this service. The St. Mark quartet, under the direction of John Hoffman, will present a program of Thanksgiving music. Dr. Franklin N. Parker, dean emeritus of the Candler School of Theology, Emory University, will speak. The offering from this service will be dedicated to the moral and spiritual care of the men in the service.

At Sacred Heart Catholic church, Father Perry, assistant pastor, will conduct a special memorial mass at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in honor of the women and men in the service. This mass will be followed by benediction and solemn sacrament. St. Anthony's church will observe a special children's mass at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. Msgr. Croke will conduct this service. Regular mass will begin at 7 o'clock.

The Rev. Samuel C. Cooper, minister of the First Baptist church, Columbus, will preach at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Peachtree Christian church. Born in Belfast, Ireland, the Rev. Cooper served churches in Prince Island, Canada, and Rochester, N. Y., before coming to the Columbus church.

Morning Prayer

Festal morning prayer and sermon will be observed at Saint Luke's Episcopal church at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning when the Rev. George Purnell Gunn, rector, speaks on "Thanksgiving in a Different Year." The vested

New President Is Installed At Wesleyan

Dr. McPherson Becomes Head of College at Macon.

MACON, Ga., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Dr. N. C. McPherson Jr. was inaugurated president of Wesleyan College and W. D. Anderson, of Macon, was elected chairman of the college board of trustees.

Also elected to the board convened for its reorganization meeting were Dr. Lester Rumble, of Atlanta, vice president, and the Rev. George E. Clary, secretary. Mrs. Mark Etheridge, of Prospect, Ky., wife of the publisher of the Louisville, Ky., Courier-Journal, was one of three alumnae of the college added to the board. The others were Mrs. T. G. Polhill, of LaGrange, and Mrs. McKibben Lane, of Macon.

Six new members were named on the board. They are Walter A. Harris, of Macon; D. Abbott Turner, of Columbus; J. C. Malone, of Atlanta; Dr. Goodrich C. White, president of Emory University; W. N. Banks, of Augusta, and Lieutenant Herbert P. Haley, of Albany.

Operating Cost For Teachers' College Larger

More Money Per Pupil Required as Enrollment Drops.

The per pupil cost of operating the Georgia Teachers' College at Statesboro has greatly increased during the last four years, while the enrollment and number of teachers have shown a serious drop, State Auditor B. E. Thrasher Jr. reported yesterday.

Governor Talmadge more than a year ago started a storm of controversy by ousting Dr. Marvin S. Pittman as president of the college. His action resulted in the discrediting of several state schools.

In his audit to the governor, Thrasher said the per pupil cost had jumped from $417.53 in the 1939-40 year to $464.15 in 1940-41 and $633.65 in 1941-42. He added the enrollment has dropped from 532 in 1939-40 to 321 in 1941-42. The regular staff numbered 59 in 1942, compared with 75 in 1941 and 65 in 1940, the audit said, adding:

Overhead Too High
"This is not a healthy condition and something should be done to build up the enrollment of the school. If this is unsuccessful, then measures should be taken to reduce the overhead cost."

The college received $83,907 from the State Board of Regents last year, an increase of $19,397 over the amount allotted the previous year, Thrasher continued. The increase was to "absorb in part the $46,120 reduction in school earnings because of the drop in student enrollment."

Total income from all sources amounted to $212,332, he said, and expenditures were $203,402 for operations and $5,985 for equipment, making a surplus of $3,945 above accounts payable.

Surpluses Mentioned
Thrasher's report also showed the Georgia State Woman's college, at Valdosta, received $186,297 and spent $143,759 for operations and $23,429 for buildings and equipment. The surplus was $2,593.

Abraham Baldwin Agricultural college at Tifton had receipts of $110,262, spent $118,902 for operations, $44,773 for equipment and had a surplus of $6,106.

North Georgia college, at Dahlonega, had an income of $109,468, spent $99,879 for operations and $700 for equipment and had a $2,050 surplus.

Georgia Southwestern college, at Americus, had an income of $102,594, spent $91,631 for operations and had a surplus of $9,830.

South Georgia college, at Douglas, had an income of $98,696, spent $80,421 for operations, $10,511 for equipment and had a surplus of $4,001.

American, French Forces Join in Memorial Rites
CASABLANCA, Morocco, Nov. 23.—(Delayed)—(AP)—American and French soldiers, who faced each other across guns two weeks ago, joined with civilians today in memorial services mourning their dead in the brief Moroccan campaign.

Both French and American color guards participated in the solemn ceremony.

Similar observances have been held during the past two days also at Rabat and Port Lyautey, scene of some of the bitterest fighting, to heal any remaining scars and weld the two armies to the task of defeating the Axis.

New Defense Equipment Reported at Marseille
BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), Nov. 24.—(AP)—The German radio said today that the fortifications of Marseille and other key points on the French southern coast were being modernized and re-equipped by German occupation forces.

"German infantry has moved into the harbor ports of Marseille and batteries of all calibers stand guard," the broadcast said.

"Batteries of the heaviest guns have been placed at all strategic points and, in addition to this, the whole of the occupied coast has been put into a state of defense which will be perfected from day to day."
